British and Russian allies hasten completion of Iran occupation as resistance ends, to open backdoor supply route to Soviet.

British bombers smash at Duisburg by night, lash at Nazi-occupied French coast by day. Germans claim 30 RAF planes shot down in 4 hours.

BERLIN

By the Associated Press

Berlin, Aug. 29.—German forces have stormed and taken Tallinn, fighting a naval battle which apparently is still continuing, and have delivered a crushing blow to the Red naval forces in the Baltic, the German High Command announced today.

Besides raising Adolf Hitler's banner over the Estonian capital, naval base on the Gulf of Finland less than an hour by bomber from Leningrad, official announcements said air and naval attacks had sunk 32 Russian ships—22 transports and 10 war vessels—and heavily damaged seven others.

The Russians, who had defended Tallinn fiercely, were said by the Germans to have been literally rushed into the sea.

Frantic efforts were made to evacuate trapped Red Army forces by water, they said, and this accounted for the great concentration of transports.

German spokesmen called the fall of Russian resistance in the rocketed Tallinn "another Dunkerque" but there was no indication on how many Russians managed to escape.

MOSCOW

Moscow, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The southwestern Red Army of Marshal Semeon Budyenny, much of which apparently has been saved from German encirclement by a stubborn, fighting retreat, opened a new phase of the battle of the Ukraine today from strong defense lines on the east bank of the lower Dnieper river.

The Russians covered the retreat by ruthlessly blasting to rubble their great Dnieperstroy dam and power plant, the largest in Europe, and indicated they had exacted a heavy toll of the Nazis before yielding the industrial city of Dnieperopetrovsk, 50 miles up the river from the dam.

Dnieperopetrovsk, with a population of more than 500,000 produced a large proportion of the Soviet's cast iron and steel.

The single important island of resistance to the Germans and their allies in the southwestern Ukraine west of the Dnieper was Odessa, Russia's largest port on the Black Sea. There Red sailors and soldiers, cut off from help by land, were prepared to defend the port of more than 600,000 persons to the very end.

Illinois Department Commander Is Reprimanded at V. F. W. Meeting

Earl Southard, After Being Censured by Head Of National Organization, is Restored to Former Status

ELECTION SCHEDULED

Philadelphia, Aug. 29—(AP)—Earl Southard, suspended Illinois department commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, was publicly reprimanded today before the organization's national convention and then restored to his former status.

Southard had been court-martialed because of his activities as secretary of the keep America Out of War Committee. Yesterday the delegates accepted a credentials committee report which excluded him.

The reprimand was carried out by National Commander Joseph C. Menendez as decreed by the findings of the court-martial, announced today for the first time. Immediately thereafter, Menendez ordered Southard seated as a delegate.

Silence greeted Menendez' announcement that the court martial had found Southard guilty, but when he declared the suspension revoked he was interrupted by applause.

"As comamnder-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars," said Menendez, "I approve the findings of the court. The court recom-

ANGLO-RUSSIANS PREPARE TERMS FOR IRAN PEACE

London, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Britain and Russia moved swiftly today to complete their occupation of Iran and capitalize on the gains of a joint invasion which ended in complete victory yesterday when the little Iranian army laid down its arms after a four-day show of resistance.

Official quarters declined to say whether the Allies had presented peace terms to Reza Shah Pahlavi's government, but informed sources expressed belief London and Moscow would stand on these points:

1—That the Iranian government hand over all Germans still in the country—estimated to include some 2,000 technicians.

2—That Iran guarantee facilities for transport of war supplies from the Persian Gulf to Russia.

3—That a steady flow of oil be maintained to feed the British navy, army and air force in the Middle East.

It was regarded as a foregone conclusion that the British and Russians would insist on retaining military control of all strategic points in Iran until the end of the war.

Moscow, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Soviet army newspaper Red Star said today that Germans trying to win over the people of Iran had told them that Adolf Hitler had become a Moslem.

STATE HIGHWAY ENGINEER FALLS VICTIM OF POLIO

State Health Department Closes Office of Unit in Harrisburg When Employe From York is Stricken With Infantile Paralysis

QUARANTINE EXTENDED

Harrisburg, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The State Health Department today closed the highway engineers unit at Harrisburg, stopping work on designs for $10,000,000 of bridges, when T. Robert Graham, 39, of York, one of the engineers, was stricken with infantile paralysis.

The Health Department put the unit under a week's quarantine as state and local authorities followed the spread of the disease with rigid bans on gatherings of young people and the postponement of school opening next month in eleven counties.

The disease has taken a toll of 18 lives to date and stricken more than 250 persons, the bulk of them in eleven eastern and central counties.

The reporting of three new cases in Philadelphia and eight in other counties led to additional restrictions today, but Dr. J. Moore Campbell, director of the State Bureau of Health Conservation, indicated the lines of the outbreak area were about fixed at this stage.

While additional cases were to be expected in the 11 hardest-hit counties next month, he said, there was little likelihood that the outbreak would become statewide.

Dr. Campbell followed up the school closing order with a prohibition on gatherings of those under 16 at any public place in the 11 counties.

COMMUNISTS OFF PHILLY BALLOT

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The county board of elections today threw out nominating petitions filed by two Communist party members who seek a place on the November 4 ballot.

In a decision signed by Morton Witkin, president, and James C. Clark, a member, the board barred the two candidates under the O'Brien act of July, 1941, which denies a place on ballot to those affiliated with a party which seeks to overthrow the government by force.

The board also ruled that the petitions, signed by 9,834 persons, did not contain a sufficient number of valid signatures.

It was the first time since the act's passage that it was involved, and it was the first time here that a legal body has officially ruled that Communist party is

President Roosevelt, Striving Anew to Step Up Arms Production, Concentrates Supreme Control of All Nation's Natural Resources in Seven-Man Board Which is Headed by Vice President Wallace

PURPOSE IS TO EASE CIVILIAN HARDSHIPS

Washington, Aug. 29—(AP)—President Roosevelt, striving anew to step up arms production, concentrated the supreme control of all the nation's natural resources today in a seven-man board headed by Vice President Wallace.

This board—a supreme-ministry of supplies—was charged with the duty of deciding what proportion of the country's materials and productive power must go for military essentials, and what may be spared for civilian needs.

These decisions perforce will result in some civilian hardships, the White House stated, but it reported that the Office of Production Management was seeking to ease them as much as possible.

President Roosevelt issued an executive order last night creating the new body—the Supply Priorities and Allocations Board. In effect, it meant a reorganization of some of the existing defense machinery, and a limited re-shuffling of some key defense personnel.

There has been criticism in many quarters for some weeks over the progress of the arms production drive, over reported friction and duplicating functions existing in various defense agencies and over the delays in allocating available raw materials to industry.

The new board was empowered to deal primarily with the supply question, but its scope evidently extended to numerous other problems which have given rise to complaint.

To it Mr. Roosevelt named: Vice President Wallace; William S. Knudsen, director general of OPM; Sidney Hillman, co-director of OPM; Secretary of War Stimson; Secretary of Navy Knox; Leon Henderson, head of the Office of Price Administration and civilian supply; and Harry L. Hopkins, special presidential assistant in charge of the lease-lend program.

For executive director of the board, the president selected Donald M. Nelson, former Sears Roebuck and Company executive who has been serving OPM as director of purchases.

Many officials were inclined to look on Nelson as the coming No. 1 man of the new organization.

CONDITION OF LAVAL REPORTED SLIGHTLY WORSE

BULLETIN

Paris, German - Occupied France, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Fears for the life of Pierre Laval mounted tonight as doctors attributed a sustained high temperature to a possible infection in the assassin's bullet wound, just below his heart. The possibility of peritonitis was regarded as a mortal peril.

Paris, Occupied France, Aug. 29—(AP)—The condition of Pierre Laval, shot by an assassin Wednesday, has grown slightly worse, according to a bulletin issued at the Versailles hospital at noon today.

Laval's temperature jumped to 39 degrees centigrade (approximately 102 degrees Fahrenheit), doctors said, adding that they feared the politician's wound below the heart had become infected.

The condition of Marcel Deat—who is also one of the top leaders of the group favoring stronger collaboration with Germany and who was shot at the same time as Laval—was declared improved. Deat's temperature had returned almost to normal.

Police pressed a thorough search for possible accomplices of Paul Colette, the assassin, and pushed complete investigations of each of Colette's statements. Three armed anti-Soviet volunteers arrested yesterday were still held.

Authorities feared that others,

Admiral Land, Chairman of Maritime Commission Called as Witness as Word Goes Out Curtailment May be Extended

CURRY IS OPTIMISTIC

BULLETIN

Washington, Aug. 29—(AP)—Admiral Emory S. Land proposed today construction of 100 oil-carrying barges as the speediest and least expensive solution for shortages of gasoline and fuel oil along the eastern seaboard. The blunt-spoken chairman of the Maritime Commission said he was opposed to construction of a huge new pipeline from southwestern oil fields to the east because it would take 750,000 tons of steel badly needed by the navy and Maritime Commission.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 29—(AP)—P. H. Curry, president of the South Penn Oil Company which has acceded to the government's order setting a ceiling for Pennsylvania grade crude prices, today expressed hope "that an increase in the ceiling will be secured."

Curry, returned from a conference in Washington with federal price administration officials, said:

"While we have nothing definite to report at this time, if the producers exercise a little patience we are hopeful that an increase in the ceiling will be secured."

He reported that the federal officials "seemed receptive" to the producers' objections to a ceiling with fixed prices 23 to 25 cents lower than Aug. 23 levels.

At the conference with Curry were Ralph T. Zook, Forest D. Zorn and W. Frank Miller, producers representing the Bradford district where most of the Pennsylvania grade crude is produced, and D. T. Ring of Columbus, O., representing southwestern Ohio and West Virginia where the Pennsylvania grade oil-bearing sands extend.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 29—(AP)—The Associated Retail Gasoline Dealers of Allegheny County, one of the first district organizations to support the "7 to 7" nightly curfew at service stations, today demanded that gasoline rationing be lifted in western Pennsylvania.

At a turbulent, four-hour meeting last night the association, which claims to represent most of the county's dealers, voted to send a resolution to Oil Coordinator Harold Ickes demanding immediate withdrawal of defense-imposed rationing.

At the same time the dealers postponed for two weeks a vote on whether the price of gasoline would be increased one cent per gallon.

Cupid Foiled as Girl Is Killed in Crash

Mercer, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Death forestalled the wedding plans of a young Cleveland couple last night as the bride-to-be was killed in an unusual accident.

Eighteen-year-old Nellie Mae Wells died instantly when the auto in which she was riding and a hay wagon collided near Mercer. Two planks extending from the wagon pierced the windshield of the car and crushed the victim's head.

Shirl Hoffman, 21, also of Cleveland, riding in the car, escaped unhurt but William Brown, 55, of Route 2, Mercer, suffered chest injuries when thrown from the wagon.

Hoffman said he and Miss Wells had intended to wed in a few days. They were returning from Barkeyville, Venango county, where he had gone to obtain his birth certificate when the accident occurred.

Ambassador Edmund Von Thermann, at Buenos Aires, Charged With Receiving Money For Use "Foreign to His Diplomatic Character"

CONTRIBUTORS LISTED

Buenos Aires, Aug. 29—(AP)—German Ambassador Edmund Von Thermann was charged by a congressional investigating committee today with receiving money from ostensible German welfare organizations and using it for ends "foreign to his diplomatic character."

The committee which has been investigating anti-Argentine activities for two months, submitted to the house of deputies its report of Nazi penetration.

It said there were 60,000 Germans in Argentine organized into cells and under oath to obey Adolf Hitler and other Nazi leaders "to the death."

Raul Damonte Taborda, committee chairman, in a synopsis of the report cited a receipt for 100,000 pesos allegedly bearing Von Thermann's signature and acknowledging payments by German welfare organizations which the committee charged were the "Nazi political machine in disguise."

The report mentioned books bearing hundreds of names listed as contributors to the German winter relief fund and grouped in tens. Each ten, or cell, was accompanied by a name—presumably of the cell leader—on the

JAPANESE ATTITUDE OUTLINED

Man-to-Man Discussion of Washington-Tokyo Relations by President Roosevelt and Ambassador Nomura Indicates Possible First Step Toward Sweeping Review of All Important Points at Issue

SIMILAR CONFERENCES ARE BELIEVED PLANNED

Tokyo, Aug. 29—(AP)—Premier Prince Konoye's message to President Roosevelt was prompted by "the very delicate relations existing between Japan and the United States following outbreak of the Russian-German war," the Japanese news agency Domei said tonight, and it reaffirmed Japan's desire to establish a "co-prosperity sphere" and permanent Pacific peace.

The Domei comment was made after all members of the cabinet and some of the highest military officials of the nation had held an emergency meeting to discuss American-Japanese relations following delivery of the Konoye message to Roosevelt in Washington yesterday.

By LLOYD LEHRBAS

Washington, Aug. 29.— (AP) — The man-to-man discussion of American-Japanese relations by President Roosevelt and Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura impressed diplomatic quarters here today as a possible first step toward a sweeping review of all important points at issue between the two nations.

Bolstering this conclusion was an official announcement from Tokyo this morning that the message which Admiral Nomura delivered to the president yesterday outlined the "imperial government's attitude toward the Pacific situation."

The message, this announcement said, was delivered at the behest of Prince Fuminaro Konoye, Japanese premier, after a special cabinet meeting.

The fact that the Japanese initiated yesterday's conference, in which Secretary of State Hull also took part, was held deeply significant—indicative, perhaps, of Tokyo's desire to achieve a peaceful solution of the pending problems, or at least some of them. There was no hint of what Prince Konoye's message contained.

However, Iichi Kishi, a government spokesman at the Japanese capital, said any conversations between Admiral Nomura and President Roosevelt certainly would embrace a discussion of shipments of United States materials to Russia—shipments which Nippon fears eventually might be used against her.

Secretary Hull disclosed that the Japanese ambassador was expected to participate in another

U. S. PLANES BEING USED AGAINST RUSSIA

Washington, Aug. 29—(AP)—Colonel Per Zilliacus, Finland's military attache, reports that American planes and artillery are helping the Finns in their attacks on Red Army forces near Leningrad in the Karelian Isthmus and farther north in a drive to cut the railway line to Murmansk.

Forty-four Brewster fighter planes which the navy released to the Finns when they were fighting Russia in 1939-40 are "doing extremely well," Zilliacus declared at a press conference yesterday. The artillery, he added, was delivered last summer, during the short-lived peace with Moscow.

Details Revealed Regarding Five-day Discussion Between Axis Chiefs

Berlin, Aug. 29—(AP)—Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini have been meeting at the Fuehrer's headquarters on the eastern front since Monday, an official announcement said today.

The five day discussions, which did not end until today, covered all political and military developments the announcement said.

It was indicated that particular attention was paid to the duration of the war.

The text of the statement from the Fuehrer's headquarters said: "The Fuehrer and Il Duce met at the Fuehrer's headquarters between Aug. 25-29 in discussions which took place at the Fuehrer's headquarters for the north and south fronts. There was thorough discussions of all military and political questions concerning the development and duration of the war.

"The questions were studied in spirit of close companionship and unity of fate which characterize relations of the Axis powers.

"The discussions were permeated with the unchangeable will of both peoples and their leaders to wage war to victorious end.

"The new European order which will emanate from this victory shall remove as extensively as possible the causes which gave rise in the past to European wars.

"Destruction of the Bolshevist danger and of plutocratic exploitation will create the possibility of peaceful, harmonious and profitable cooperation of all peoples of the European continent in the political as well as in the economic and cultural spheres.

"In the course of these discussions, the Fuehrer and Il Duce went to important points on the eastern front when also one of the Italian divisions employed in the fight against Bolshevism was inspected.

"On the occasion of their visit to the south front, the Fuehrer and Il Duce were greeted by General Field Marshal Von Rundstedt.

"Furthermore, visits were made to the headquarters of the Reichsmarshal (Goering) and of the commander in chief of the army."

Mussolini was accompanied by Dino Alfieri, Italian ambassador to Germany, General Ugo Cavallero, chief of the Italian general staff; and other high Italian military and civil officials.

Count Galleazo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, was not present because of illness.

The German ambassador to Italy, Hans-Georg Viktor Von Mackensen and the German military attache to the embassy went with Mussolini from Rome.

German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop and Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel participated in both the political and military conferences.

Farmers Asked to Supply Extra Milk by Hiking Feeding Rations

Upper Darby, Aug. 29—(AP)—Eighteen thousand farmers were asked today to supply an extra 85,000,000 pounds of milk a year for Britain by increasing production of their herds.

The Farm Security Administration's regional office here called on its clients throughout the northeast to adopt a "one for one" rule—the feeding of an extra pound of grain to produce an extra pound of milk. The FSA seeks an increase of three pints of milk a day per cow.

If all dairymen in the northeast adopted the "one for one" feeding rule, the FSA said, milk production could be stepped up by approximately 1,581,000,000 quarts a year—enough to provide every person in London with an extra pint daily.

Farmers also were urged to abandon the practice of selling calves when milk prices are high. Instead, the FSA recommended growing of replacements to increase herds.

Besides the expanded milk production, other FSA goals announced were an increase of 20 eggs per hen a year; an increase in pork production by preventing death of pigs between birth and weaning; and at least a 10 per cent increase in production and preservation of garden fruits and vegetables.

A real toboggan run is to be constructed and lights provided for night skiing and tobogganing.

QUIET HOLIDAY IS IN PROSPECT IN THE BOROUGH

Another holiday will pass virtually unnoticed so far as any local program or celebration is concerned the coming Monday, when Labor Day will be very quietly observed in Warren.

The week-end holiday is expected to bring a wholesale departure from Warren in favor of lake resorts, nearby celebrations and even more distant travel for visits and reunions.

With schools opening Wednesday Labor Day is considered the closing time for many of the summer resorts and similar gathering spots and the holiday brings many reunions and family travel trips on the close of the summer vacation season.

That many have already started the holiday observance was indicated by the large number of visiting motorists who were observed passing through Warren today.

Announcement has been made that the local office of the Department of Public Assistance will be closed both on Saturday and Monday.

The post office will observe the holiday. There will be no regular deliveries either in the borough or rural routes. Special delivery mail, however, will be dispatched as usual, and persons expecting important mail may arrange to have it delivered by making the request at the office Saturday.

Direct Relief In County Shows Slight Increase Past Week

Direct relief payments made to needy Warren countians during the week ended today show an increase of $4 over those of the previous week, according to State Treasurer G. Harold Wagner.

Payments for the week totaled $209 which was $1,005 lower than those of the comparable week of last year. Current payments required 130 fewer checks than those of a year ago.

Payments by the Bureau of Assistance Disbursements in the Treasury Department follow: Current week, $209, 72 checks; previous week, $204, 74 checks; comparable week of 1940, $1,124, 808 checks.

RAISE GAS PRICE

Philadelphia, Aug. 29—(AP)—Afater repeated pleas against price fixing by two officers of the Associated Gasoline Retailers of Philadelphia and vicinity, some 350 gasoline retailers in a stormy meeting agred informally to raise their prices to 19.5 cents a gallon today—a full cent over the government's new "fair minimum price." Tank-wagon prices now are 14.5 cents. Retail prices have ranged from 17½ to 18½. BACK TO SCHOOL NEXT WEEK

Yes, boys and girls, it's the hard truth. Vacation is over. Next Wednesday you'll be back in the school room again, so make the best of what good times may be in store for you Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

For many Warren tots it will be the start of a new life—a period of twelve consecutive years when they will be studying to equip themselves for either a college education or directly take up life's duties.

School for first graders brings a few tears to the mothers' eyes as they watch their children march off for the first time. The mothers are going to miss those little tots whom they have carefully watched and nurtured for the last six years and have scarcely let out of their sight. Now the children will be starting out on their own.

How fine that we in America can enjoy the benefits of a free school system. We only need to observe the turmoil and conflict taking place across the Atlantic today. To safeguard America and preserve our way of life means sacrifices but it will be worth it. Our children should never be faced with the shackles of bondage that have spread over most of Europe.

GOOD TIME TO TAKE IT EASY

It would be impossible to lay too much stress on the advisability of using extreme care during the next three days when the entire country will be observing the Labor Day weekend. Favored by good weather, it is safe to predict that the traffic will be heavier than at any other time during the year, which naturally means that the risks will be that much greater, not only to motorists, but for all other users of the highways.

Next Tuesday the Times-Mirror, along with all other papers in the country, will be carrying headlines telling of the terrible toll in lives lost in accidents during the double holiday. And most of these, strange to relate, will be recorded in the so-called country districts, for the National Safety Council's annual statistical volume of accident data states that more than three of every five traffic fatalities during 1940 resulted from accidents that occurred in rural areas.

There were 34,500 traffic deaths last year—21,000 resulting from accidents outside the cities. The rural area toll was seven per cent higher than in 1939. Traffic deaths in rural areas have increased one and one-half times from 1924 to 1940, and rose 25 per cent in just the last ten years. Two fatal accidents have occurred in the county this year, both in rural sections—one in Brokenstraw township, and the other in Clarendon.

It is recalled that 889 accidents occurred on the highways of Pennsylvania during the three-day holiday last September, and a careful analysis of their causes showed excessive speed and reckless driving was responsible for most of them.

A statement made by Walter J. Kress, acting secretary of revenue, is worth repeating here: "This year with more cars than ever on our highways and with the additional need of conserving the use of gasoline as a national defense measure, motorists not only will be protecting themselves and their fellow drivers on the road but also will be showing their patriotic spirit by driving slowly and carefully!"

When the temperature slips down around forty, as it did the last two mornings, and the fog hangs heavy over the river, then we know that summer is on the wane.

Governor James was supposed to be on a fishing trip, and according to the pictures of the next "first lady" he encountered excellent luck.

If you are going to take in the Lander fair, better get there tonight or tomorrow. They say it is the best ever!

And remember, the clocks are not to be turned back until the last Sunday in September.

Guess we've heard about the last of 1941 reunions!

• EDSON'S WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
Times-Mirror Washington Correspondent

Washington, Aug. 29—New policies aimed at bucking up morale of national guardsmen and selective service soldiers may be expected soon as a result of the appointment of Frederick Osborn of New York as a brigadier general in charge of the morale branch of the Army staff in Washington.

Just what those new policies will be, General Osborn isn't saying until after he concludes a series of conferences with G-3, the training and operations section of the general staff. Two of the big problems to be tackled are how to overcome the plain everyday boredom of the temporary soldier without pampering him, and how to put over without too much obvious propaganda-type doping, an educational program to sell the troops on the necessity of the present emergency.

General Osborne's appointment to the job came as pretty much of a surprise in Washington. His only military experience was as a Red Cross worker in France in the last war, though he has been a member of the Joint Army and Navy Committee on Welfare and Recreation for some time. He is 52, was graduated from Princeton in 1910. From 1914 to 1917 he was vice president and treasurer of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton railway, and after the war he went back to the road for two years as president. From 1921 to 1938 he was a partner in G. M. P. Murphy and Company, bankers, and among his other connections today is a directorship of the Fifth Avenue Bank of New York. His 6 feet 8 inches make him the Army's tallest officer.

The morale organization which General Osborn inherits from Brig.-Gen. James A. Ulio, who resigned because of ill health, has been entirely built since the beginning of the present emergency. The pre-1940 Army of 135,000 men didn't have to worry much about morale, but the induction of a million and a half national guardsmen and selectees has made it very much of a problem indeed.

The things General Ulio did to keep these temporary soldiers happy with their lot have been numerous, and not much has been spared in the way of expense to get results.

With the big part of the Army training in the south, it has been difficult for most of the northerners to get home, so one of the big efforts was establishment of recreational areas at well known resorts, where soldiers could spend week ends and leaves seein' the sights and not having to answer reveille.

In the camps themselves, everything possible has been done to make life enjoyable in off-duty hours. An elaborate program of movies has been booked. Theatricals and musical entertainment have been encouraged. Athletics have been sponsored. Post exchanges have been made almost as universal in their appeal as corner drug stores.

Libraries and camp publications have been well stocked and supported. Service clubs for the boys and guest houses for their folks are at all camps of any size at all. And civilian co-operation has been sought and received in every conceivable form.

The needless wrangling in Washington over extension of the one year's selective service has obviously been the cause of the current flare-up. Back of that is the simple fact that the Army and the civilian population too have not yet been sold on the seriousness of the emergency, the need of the defense effort, the all out characteristics of the crisis. What the Army brass hats would probably like to know is how you can have good soldier morale when the civilian morale is as low as it admittedly

Greeks Fight Invaders With Underground War

ADOLF HITLER'S inept ally, Benito Mussolini, waged war on Greece, Oct. 27, 1940, but after suffering a succession of humiliating defeats, despite superior numbers and material, he was again salvaged by his boss in Berlin.

One of the vital defense links in Greece was the Corinth Canal, which the government pictured in 1927 on the stamp above. It cuts through the Isthmus of Corinth connecting the Ionian and Aegean Seas. Mussolini sought control of this canal as a shortcut to Il Duce's island possessions off the southwest coast of Asia Minor.

The Gestapo followed Hitler's armies into Greece and have given the Greeks enough incentive to conduct an underground movement. Coincident with the British "V" campaign, Serbs, Greeks, Bosnians and Montenegrins have been wearing white caps adapted from the headdress the Albanians wore in their long struggle against the Ottoman Empire.

Greek mountaineers and Evzones are banded into guerilla armies, continuing the war behind the lines.

is, with labor leaders dissatisfied, though they have better conditions than ever before, with farm leaders fighting for still higher parities and resisting price control, with business scared because it can't go on "as usual".

One idea on remedying this situation is that the morale of the Army can be bucked up to such a point that it can be a force for dispelling some of the gloom at home. It is a democratic army's privilege to gripe—at food, at pay, at officers, at everything. But if even just a little pride in the Army could be instilled into the letters which the soldiers write home, it would not only do the Army but the country as a whole a lot of tonic good.

Regular Army officers look for a big improvement of the morale situation during and after the present maneuvers. There the soldiers will have been kept busy, will have lived in the field with their officers, will have come to know what real soldiering is.

One of the biggest handicaps the new Army has had to overcome is just plain boredom.

MADE UP TO KILL

Chapter 29

Enter Greeley Morris

"ONCE I nearly got a job, not a good one, but a job," Carol went on. "A manager who had seen my performance in Green Apples and had liked me. I got as far as a week's rehearsals. That was all. Morris heard about it and I was fired.

"There was nothing for me in London then and so I came back. I changed my name to Carol Blanton again so that Morris couldn't find me, couldn't spoil my chances with the managers here if he still wanted to. And I was afraid he did.

"I pounded the pavements here for months. I did get a few chances to read for parts, but I read so badly. And I had had no experience. I couldn't tell them about Green Apples. I had to say, 'No. No experience at all.' Then one day I saw in the paper that Clint Bowers was going to do Green Apples. All of a sudden it came to me. There was a part I could do. Jeff, you saw what that critic said in Manchester. And Greeley Morris never came to America for any of his plays. He would never know if the girl who played Dina was Leila Gray. I was . . . pretty desperate then. There was no money left, none at all. Well, it was worth the chance and I took it."

She studied her fingertips intently. "You know the rest. I got the job and the day we opened I heard that he was to be here.

"I didn't know what to do at first. And then I thought . . . he was only to be here that one night and, if he shouldn't see me, if he should go on to Hollywood without knowing—I had to make Alice play that one night.

"I did it. I pretended my voice was gone, and then, when you had gone to the theater, Haila, then I remembered the pictures in front of the Colony, and I knew it wouldn't work. He couldn't help seeing that big picture of me plastered there, and he would know. It would be better if I played. Maybe he wouldn't say anything, maybe I could keep him from saying anything. You and Tommy came in when I was telephoning the theater to say that I'd be there. You didn't believe me, I could see that. But I . . . I couldn't explain.

"I wrote the note when I was alone in my dressing room and after it was written I didn't know what to do with it. I kept asking myself if it was worth while to plead with him or if I should just keep still and take my chance. Even after the play I was still muddled up. I didn't know what to do. And then, suddenly, I was sick. The kind of sick when you think you're dying and nothing matters at all. I forgot about that note and Greeley Morris and my job, forgot about everything but getting home and into bed. That was all. The next thing I knew I was in Bellevue."

She sank on the couch and covered her face with her hands. After a moment Jeff said, "Did you think it was Greeley Morris who tried to kill you, Carol?"

"I . . . I don't know. At first I did. When we met that morning in Bowers' office and he pretended not to know me, when he said that he had never heard of Lee Gray, then I though he was the one. But the next night when Eve was murdered, he wasn't even in the theater. And then . . . then I knew it couldn't be he."

"Carol, why were you calling him at his hotel? When I answered the phone?"

"I nearly fainted when I recognized your voice."

"Where was Crowley when you called?"

Crowley's Fault

"I HAD gone out for a walk and he was with me. And suddenly I had to talk to Morris. I had to find out what he was going to do. I didn't want him to tell the police about Lee Gray, the way he'd tell it, it would sound . . . if anyone told the police or Mr. Bowers or you, I wanted to do it."

"But if Crowley was with you . . ."

"I managed to lose him in the crowd and sneak into a corner drugstore without him seeing me. When I came out, he was running back and forth on Madison Avenue looking for me."

Jeff said ruefully: "If Crowley had only reported that he had lost track of you at that corner, and at that time, we would have known you were Lee Gray. Because I traced the call to that drugstore."

"He was so embarrassed at losing sight of me that I knew he'd never mention it to Peterson."

"The lug!"

Carol smiled faintly. "He didn't even know I had been in that drugstore; he couldn't have thought it would have mattered. I was only gone a minute. I knew the number and as soon as Jeff answered I hung up and ran out. I was afraid you had recognized my voice, Jeff."

"You only said one word. But if I had it would have saved you a lot of trouble and worry."

"Yes. Oh, I've almost told you all this . . . a thousand times. But I couldn't."

"Why, Carol?"

Her eyes found Steve's and there was a glistening of quick tears in them. "Steve, I didn't want Steve . . ."

He was beside her then, she was in his arms, sobbing into his shoulder. "It was such a nasty thing, all of it. So horrible, not like what I wanted for Steve and me. I was ashamed of it. And I was afraid of what Steve would do if I told him about Greeley . . ."

The white lines around Steve's mouth tightened like little bands, drawing it into a hard slit. "I'm going to be glad to see Mr. Morris."

"Steve!" Carol's face was ashen. "Steve, that's why I've been quiet! That's why I've kept all this inside me! I didn't want you and Morris to . . . Oh, Steve, you mustn't see him! Something will happen, Steve, something will happen if you do, and we'll . . . we'll lose each other, Steve!"

She turned to Jeff. She was crying. "Jeff, don't let Morris come here! You don't need to see him now. I've told you everything. I've explained it all to you! He doesn't have to come, does he?"

"Yes, Carol," Jeff said gently. "You see, we want Morris to explain a few things now."

"Then . . . then make Steve go before he comes. Don't let him . . . Oh, I'm afraid for Steve! He mustn't see Greeley Morris, he mustn't . . ."

We heard the elevator come to a groaning stop, quick footsteps in the hall outside, and then the impatient rapping at the door. Jeff turned the key in the lock. Peterson stepped to one side as the door opened, and Greeley Morris preceded him into the room.

Another Story

IN a voice monotonous with fatigue and so low that at times Peterson had to lean forward to hear her, Carol retold her story almost word for word. Only once did he interrupt her. "London, huh? So that accounts for the blank between the time you left Salt Lake City and turned up here in New York. We were working on that now, Miss Blanton." He nodded curtly and she went on, occasionally glancing furtively at Greeley Morris as if she feared, despite Steve's reassuring nearness, he might rise and start toward her. But Morris hardly moved during the long recital except to light a fresh cigarette.

Peterson moved to the window when Carol had finished and stood looking down into the street, his hands clasped behind his back. At last he turned and, facing Morris, said abruptly, "So you knew Miss Blanton in London."

"I knew Miss Gray in London."

"When did you first know that Carol Blanton was to appear in your play over here?"

"When Bowers cabled me the names of the cast."

"When was that?"

"Just before the show went into rehearsal."

"So you knew," Peterson snapped, "that Miss Blanton was in New York and in your play."

Morris smiled. "Naturally. But I didn't know that Miss Blanton was Miss Gray."

"You have no way of proving that?"

"Of course not."

"But you recognized her as Lee Gray when you saw Green Apples on opening night?"

"Certainly."

"And yet you denied knowing Lee Gray. Why?"

"That's fairly obvious, isn't it? Miss Blanton had been poisoned on the very night of my arrival, unfortunately. The police, apparently, were searching for someone with a past connection to her. I saw no reason to offer the evidence of my connection with her by explaining Lee Gray and implicating myself. And since Miss Blanton seemed unanxious to do so . . ."

"So. Very pretty. And the story Miss Blanton has just told . . . was it . . . has she been correct about your relationship with her in England?"

"Would you expect me to admit it if it were the truth?"

"Is it?"

"That I'm a degenerate, a maniac who scares little girls?"

"Why did Miss Blanton leave your show?"

Steve jumped up angrily. "Carol's told you why she left! Must you drag her through all that again? Isn't it bad enough that she has to stay here and . . ."

Peterson interrupted him. "She doesn't have to stay here. She can leave now if she wants to."

"I'll stay." Carol said quietly. Her hand reached up to Steve, drawing him down beside her. "Steve, I've got to stay."

"All right, Morris. Why did Miss Blanton leave your show?"

With Our Boys In Virginia

It was a tired and weary bunch of fellows that came rolling into the A. P. Hill Military Reservation this morning but they went right to work and now we are all quite well settled and it is just another big day gone from the annals of our company work.

The entire division moved out of Indiantown Gap at just 6:00 a. m. and were on their way toward the new camp site. It was indeed one of the most impressive sight that anyone could have ever seen to witness the movement of such a large body of motor vehicles in convoy and it really was one of the largest convoys of its kind to ever go through this part of the country.

The convoy was split up into three different parts and each of the three convoys had a separate route. This of course was to eliminate the danger of congesting too much traffic. With nothing only minor mishaps such as engine trouble, and very little of this, the entire convoy, of which this company was a part, pulled into our bivouac area about 5:30 p. m. and prepared to make camp for the night. This area was located just one mile outside of a little Virginia town named Warrenton and it was very heart warming to the boys (when after supper and they were all settled for the night) to find that the town had prepared for our coming in that evening and all of the people were more than courteous and very much in the welcoming spirit. The Methodist church of the town had its recreation rooms open and provided the men with stationary and post cards. Also they gave them the liberty of using their ping-pong tables and full access to their library of magazines. As you left the church there were two very nice looking ladies who passed out a package of cigarettes to any of those who wanted them. It is towns and people like this that make one realize that there is patriotism in this old country whether it shows on the surface or not. It is also very heart warming to find that you are accepted in these different towns like you were a member of their own different social groups.

Our first day here at the A.P. Hill Reservation was rather a busy one as we all had to get our equipment set up in our tents and the necessary work which goes with making camp with tents, and I must say that it is no small job. All of the tents have to have the ropes tightened up on them and the sidewalls must be footed with a trench to drain off the water which runs off the top of your tent when it rains. Of course our old jinx stayed with us even though we are some two hundred miles from it. We had just nicely got ourselves settled when the sky started to get dark and it began to rumble in a very ominous tone. It wasn't long until down it came in torrents and the excitement started right there. The tents we have here are all new and of course the minute it starts to rain the material in them begins to shrink. Well if you could have seen these well dressed men of the army this afternoon you would have certainly laughed as they were running around in their shorts loosening tent ropes like mad and also getting a good cold shower besides. All in all the boys are quite on their toes for the tedious trip and we expect great things of them during this maneuver.

We haven't as yet received the notice as to what our work will be for the next few days but as soon as yours truly finds out, it will be in this column and we will try and keep you informed as to everything that goes on while we are down here.

As yet we haven't mentioned the weather down here, except that we had a little rain. Well if we thought it was warm in Pennsylvania we take it back because down here the sun really shines and it shines so very bright. We can't give you the exact temperature but it was one of the warmest days we have spent for quite some time and the members of the anti-tank battalion say that we haven't seen anything yet for the simple reason that they think it was cool down here when we pulled in, but we sure think that it was hot enough.

Things are rather mixed up down here at the present time and I can't get very much information as to what or when we are going to do anything so you will have to wait until some later date when we can give you all of the happenings that are taking place down here.

Don't forget the boys are a long way from home now and we will be expecting to hear from you often. As a reminder I will give you the address once more,

Pvt. John Doe,
Co. I, 112th Inf.,
A. P. O. 28,
Fredericksburg, Va.

We'll be seeing you in the paper.

A. P. Hill Military Reservation, Va., Aug. 29—(AP)—Tendency of trucks to bunch up on roads is one of the greatest failings of Pennsylvania's 28th Division in maneuvers, Major General Edward Martin noted today.

He made this observation as infantry supported by field artillery units started war games that will continue to Sept. 15. The commanding officer also listed poor camouflage among the shortcomings of his troops and called for improvement in getting information back to rear units.

The plan of training for the division calls for drills in smaller units, mostly in brigades, during the first week here, General Martin said, with troops taking the field against each other during the second week. A division inspection is scheduled for the final week.

BY WM. E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

After taking a few days off for sightseeing, we remembered we were on a bridge tour, so our foursome headed for Albuquerque, N. M., to visit with C. H. Fulwiler, president of the Pacific Bridge League.

We had seen Fulwiler in San Francisco and Los Angeles and discussed the possibilities of the Pacific Bridge League joining with the American Contract Bridge League. I am happy to say that all bridge organizations in the United States are now under the banner of the American Contract Bridge League, the Pacific Bridge League having become the western division of the A. C. B. L.

When our business was completed, the conversation drifted to bridge hands. Today's hand, which Fulwiler played in one of the events of Bridge Week on the Pacific coast, I think interesting enough to pass on to you.

North and South got to three no trump rather optimistically. From the sight of their cards, the contract is hopeless after the spade lead. Fulwiler (North) held off the first two rounds of spades, and then West was forced to shift. He tried the jack of diamonds. North played low, East won and continued spades, forcing the ace. The three of hearts was discarded from dummy.

Fulwiler then laid down the ace of clubs and was happy to see the queen drop. He immediately took his four club tricks, West discarding hearts. Then on a diamond lead, Fulwiler put up the ace, for fear of losing the trick to East. His only remaining chance was to lead his singleton heart and finesse and this won three heart tricks for the contract.

Have you ever seen such an array of insufficiently guarded honors?

A LAUGHING MATTER

WM. S. KNUDSEN'S FAVORITE STORY

"My grandson is three years old and his name is Bill. He's always taking me down a peg or two. He hasn't yet arrived at the stage when he calls me grandfather. He calls be 'Big Bill.'

"When I got my decoration from the King of Denmark, the Danish consul in Detroit came to my office and put it on my desk. I told him I had done nothing to warrant any decoration, but he said the country I originated in had decided to honor me, so that was that.

"I took it home, and set it on the table. Then I announced to the family circle, including 'Little Bill,' that I was now a Knight.

"Little Bill spoke right up.

"'Which one,' he asked, 'tomorrow night, Friday night, or Saturday night?'"

TWO SLAYINGS IN WASHINGTON ARE CLEARED UP

Washington, Aug. 29—(AP)—Metropolitan police, claiming an amazing series of confessions from a one-time undertaker's assistant, today announced the solution of two crimes that shocked the capital—the rape-slaying of a pretty government stenographer and the rape-slaying of a young bride of a few weeks.

Edward J. Kelley, acting superintendent of police, said that the man, Jarvis Roosevelt Catoe, 38-year-od Negro, had confessed not only in these two cases, but in a series of five other sex homicides both here and in New York. Three of the victims were white, four Negroes.

The superintendent said he was satisfied the confessions were true and they "positively convinced him" that he had the man who raped and strangled Miss Jessie Elizabeth Streiff, war department employee from Des Moines, Ia., whose nude body was found hidden in the garage of a retired professor here June 16.

Kelly also announced that the undertaker's helper had made a confession in the rape-slaying of Mrs. Rose Simon Abramowitz, 25, who was found dead in her apartment here less than a month after she had come to the city as a bride from Kansas City, Mo.

Then came the rape-slaying of Mrs. Evelyn Andersen, 26, whose body was found August 4 in a Bronx lot. It was this case that led to the apprehension of the Negro now in custody, and Superintendent Kelly said this was the first of the slayings on which a confession was obtained.

Superintendent Kelly said the sex slayings covered by the series of confessions took place between Dec. 1, 1939 and the present month. In addition to the slayings, Kelly said, the prisoner had confessed to four other rapings here and two attempted attacks. These involved Negro women, he said.

similar talk, or possibly a series of discussions, designed to clarify the situations which have arisen from conflicting policies of the two great powers which flank the Pacific.

Since the Japanese premier made the unusual gesture of communicating directly with President Roosevelt, the intensely interested diplomatic observers envisaged the possibility of some spectacular suggestion for a conference designed to clarify the tense situation in the Far East.

The simplest interpretation of the potentialities of the Japanese premier's message was that Prince Konoye wished to set the diplomatic stage for a series of conferences between the president, secretary of state, and Japanese ambassador to explore thoroughly the possibilities of an eventual peaceful agreement on conflicting policies.

Within the realm of possibilities, one informed diplomat said, was that Prince Konoye, taking a leaf from President Roosevelt's own book, may have suggested a personal meeting "somewhere in the Pacific," patterned after the historic conference between the president and Prime Minister Churchill "somewhere in the Atlantic."

DR. WEAVER IS RE-ELECTED U. B. SUPERINTENDENT

According to word received from Camp Findley at Findley Lake, N. Y., Dr. S. Paul Weaver, of Jamestown, N. Y., and formerly of Warren, has been reelected superintendent of the Erie Conference of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ for the eighth consecutive year.

The action was taken by delegates at the annual convention of the Erie Conference, being conducted by Bishop G. D. Batdorf, of Harrisburg.

Another feature of yesterday's session was the annual memorial service conducted by Rev. C. E. Dibble, pastor of the Warren church of the denomination. Among those honored in this tribute were Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Platz, retired minister who was fatally injured in an automobile accident near his home at Grand Valley, and his wife, who shortly followed him in death.

In presenting the annual report during the afternoon, Dr. Weaver said the conference had made splendid gains in all lines of work. Other reports included that of committee chairmen and work of Bonebrake Seminary.

The Warren pastor was also in charge of last evening's service, which opened with a song service in charge of Mrs. O. E. Williams, wife of another former local pastor.

The conference continues through Sunday, with special programs, addresses and business sessions on the calendar.

They pointed out that the vice president's numerous other duties would not permit him to be a full time chairman. Thus the day-to-day work in this tremendously important role would devolve on Nelson.

One of the major personnel changes was Nelson's appointment to succeed Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., as head of OPM's priorities division. It is this divison that will see to the distribution of available supplies according to the super-board's policies.

Stettinius, former chairman of the U. S. Steel Corporation, was shifted from OPM to the post of Lend-Lease Administrator, although the complete aid program will continue under the general supervision of Hopkins.

ment of gasoline sales now effective along the eastern seaboard.

Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, was called before the special senate group investigating shortages in petroleum products to supply data on tankers which normally haul millions of gallons of gasoline and fuel oil from the Gulf ports to the Atlantic seaboard.

The warning that west coast motorists soon may be limited at gasoline filling stations came from Ralph K. Davies, acting petroleum coordinator, who filled both sessions of initial hearings yesterday with a long survey of the present situation.

Several of the five senators conducting the inquiry wanted to know why only motorists in the populous east had been asked to conserve gasoline. Some said that the entire country should share in national defense burdens.

MOTORISTS

Washington, Aug. 29—(AP)—Vacationists and other motorists need not worry about the possibility of being stranded in faraway places because of the gasoline shortage. So says Ralph K. Davies, acting petroleum coordinator.

Chairman Maloney (D-Conn) raised this question at a Senate investigation and Davis replied:

"I can's conceive of anyone being stranded anywhere."

Davies agreed but explained that officials had been more than busy trying to cut gasoline use in the east and that they planned a similar reduction of 15 percent in supplies for retail outlets on the Pacific coast.

THE VOICE of the FANS

(Note—Due to the fact that the sports department has received so many letters this week concerning the forthcoming Irvine-Hospital baseball game at Wilder Field Sunday afternoon, it is impossible to print all contributions. Those which were from more authoritative sources were used first in every case. And remember, fans, the department will take letters on all sports, so vary the subjects if you wish.)

August 29, 1941

We are sorry we must drag our private feud with Mr. Gardner into the open as has been the case in the past few days.

We are sorry he takes the attitude he does. We don't think his team is as good as he says.

We are sorry that the youth of his team makes it an irresistible force to be thrown against the immovable stone wall of the seasoned Forge team.

We were sorry to see that the heretofore highly esteemed Mr. Passinger has thrown caution to the winds and has placed his betting power (and vocabulary) at the disposal of the Hospital children. (Sports Ed. Note—Ahem! Jimmy, pal, tell me where you've seen that I'm betting on or predicting the outcome of this game. This department is neutral and will remain so.)

We are sorry but experience keeps a dear school—and the Hospital boys are about to enter the college of that school on Sunday.

We are sorry that some people are going to be disappointed. It won't be the fans—most of them are adults. But youngsters are easily hurt.

We're sorry for all these things. But when a man as old as Mr. Gardner starts making rash statements to the newspapers we actually pity him. So—most of all we're sorry for Mr. Gardner.

So sorry.

Jim Kannen.

(Sports Ed. Note—It appears that in the above letter Mr. Kannen is sorry and thinks the Forge will win. We're sorry, too.)

Howard Pollet is a young fellow with whom baseball fans might as well get acquainted, because he is going to be a great star and may help squeeze the St. Louis Cardinals into this year's National League championship.

Pollet is the 20-year-old southpaw who turned the Texas League upside down for Houston before the Cards promoted him a couple weeks ago. Down there he won 20 and lost four, had an earned-run average of 1.06, and pitched five shutouts, including a no-hitter.

Yesterday he shut out the New York Giants, 5-0, on three scattered singles. Previously he had beaten the Boston Braves, 3-2, on four hits, and had lost to the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3-2, while giving seven safeties.

His triumph over the Giants came while the Dodgers had an open day and shaved Brooklyn's first-place margin to one game.

The National League had another spectacular pitching show as Boston downed the Chicago Cubs, 2-1. Tom Earley held the Cubs to two hits, one of them a homer by Phil Cavarretta in the ninth. Vallie Eaves pitched four-hit ball, but forced in a run in the first with a walk and gave another on Max West's homer in the fourth.

Pittsburgh edged out the Phillies, 3-2, with three runs in the ninth, two of them on a double by Little Lee Handley.

The New York Yankees maintained their 17-game lead in the American League by bopping the St. Louis Browns, 8-5, in 10 innings.

Tom Henrich knocked in two of the 10th inning runs with a double. He had hit his 26th homer with one on in the third.

Thornton Lee, the year's outstanding lefthander in the American League, chalked up his 17th victory by holding the Washington Senators to four singles while the Chicago White Sox rolled to a 4-0 shutout. Taft Wright had a perfect day at bat with a double and two singles.

Rudy York hit a homer with the bases loaded in the seventh inning to give the Detroit Tigers an 8-7 triumph over the Boston Red Sox after homers by Ted Williams and Joe Croning had headed the Sox into an early lead.

Dick Siebert singled with the bases loaded to score three runs in the seventh and propel the Philadelphia Athletics to a 5-3 victory over the staggering Cleveland Indians. The A's opened with a pair of runs off Al Milnar in the first, but Cleveland clawed back with three tallies in the same frame. However, Bill Beckman, who replaced Johnny Babich with one out in the first inning, held the Indians to four hits the rest of the way.

CASEYS ANNEX CITY SOFTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Forcing the play over the entire route, the K. of C. defeated the Recreation Center last night in the deciding game of the City League softball championship series, by a score of 8 to 6.

Two runs in the eight inning broke a tie at six runs apiece and gave the Caseys the gonfalon.

Harry Wooster was the winning pitcher with Ed Seaquist the loser. Bruno Salerno hit a triple for the winners, and Harry Wooster doubled to pace the club to victory.

The K. of C. was the underdog throughout the series, having only one pitcher, Wooster, which was a handicap, because it is hard for a team to be at full strength with one hurler having to do all the tossing. However, after losing the first game 13-3, they retaliated with a 4-1 win and then last night's deciding decision.

MIAMI MAID IS CHOICE TO COP COURT TOURNEY

Philadelphia, Aug. 29—(AP)—Doris (Babe) Hart, 16-year-old Miami, Fla., starlet, had a chance today (1:30 p. m. EST) to become the first player south of the Mason-Dixon line to win the National Junior Girls Tennis Championship.

Second seeded Miss Hart earned the right to meet defending champion Louise Brough, top ranked performer from Beverly Hills, Calif., in the finals of the 24th annual event at the Philadelphia Cricket Club.

The Miami maid staged a sensational rally yesterday to turn back Little Shirley Catton, Alameda, Calif., 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, in a brillian battle that lasted an hour and 15 minutes. Miss Hart's devastating forehand cross court drive finally gave her the upper hand.

In contrast, Miss Brough overwhelmed Barbara Krase; San Francisco, 6-0, 6-3, in the other semi-final brush lasted but 25 minutes. The defending queen ripped off 15 straight points and allowed her nervous opponent but two in the first set.

After challenging for the singles crown, Miss Hart and Nellie Sheer, Miami Beach, were slated to defend their doubles championship against Miss Brough and Gertrude Moran, Santa Monica, Calif. The Hart-Sheer duo reached the last round by trouncing Miss Catton and Miss Krase, 6-3, 6-2. Miss Brough and Miss Moran beat Mary Ann Morgenstern and Barbara Ann Brooke, 6-3, 6-4, in an All-California clash.

PARALYSIS MAY POSTPONE MANY GRID CONTESTS

Philadelphia, Aug. 29—(AP)—More than 200 scholastic football games will be affected by the recent request of the Pennsylvania Inter-Scholastic Athletic Association for high schools in the infantile paralysis quarantine zone to suspend practice and games during the emergency.

The request that schools in 11 eastern and central Pennsylvania counties set back opening of fall athletic activity until Sept. 15 will have a widespread effect upon the current season, reaching schools in those counties still not under the quarantine. Many already had started grid practice while others planned to get under way next week.

Shippers' forecasts by the Weather Bureau, Department of Commerce, enables the movement of perishables with a minimum of loss.

BASEBALL, WITH OLD-ITME ACCENT, TO BE ON TAP AT WILDER FIELD NEXT SUNDAY; GRID FRACAS HERE MONDAY, BY THE WAY

It is our private opinion that when the Hospital and the Forge battle Sunday at Irvine, fans will see an old-time ball game, where something other than balls and bats will fly. Of course, this is no promise, but should the hostilities go along the right trail, you can look for either side to cut loose with some of that fighting spirit that made baseball what it is today. Through the Voice of the Fans column on this page this week you've heard both sides, seen a verbal battle before the feature attraction, and now a capacity crowd is steamed up and ready to trek to Wilder Field to see just how good both teams are under pressure. The State has gained enough confidence through their 4-4 tie of last week to be ready to stake everything in Sunday's tussle. And the Forge has vowed that they'll skin the hide off those young "bucks" up North Warren way. This sanctum was informed yesterday afternoon that Hank Wise has been added to the mound staff, now giving the Hospital two tossers instead of only one in the veteran Jim Rose. The move was not made in an effort to stack the lineup for the Forge game, but because the North Warren crew plays three games over the weekend, a little too much for any single hurler.

The Hospital management made it clear that they didn't fear the Irvine maulers and have a plan in mind to mold the Forgers into just the shape they want them when they get together this weekend. Business Manager Joe Gardner didn't make an announcement concerning his starting moundsman, but opined that youthful Chuck Clawson was, in his estimation, good enough to flog the Irvine "rookies." But it won't be that easy. Clawson's a good chucker, and would satisfy maybe for five or six sessions, but his experience on the mound hasn't been sufficient to teach him how to play a smart game in that position yet, and the youngster would wear himself out before retiring a team like the Forge over a nine-inning route. The Morrison crew, meanwhile, will offer Gagliardi or Hines, it is believed, up to the Hospital as the starting delivery boy. And either of these pitchers is a capable and steady tosser who can keep most teams under control. In regard to Wise again, Hank left the Forge club about a month ago and this week signed with the local team to pitch in one or more of their weekend contests. It is possible that he'll be in there against his former mates, which would make everything just rosy. It's the best baseball offering fans in this section have been presented this year. And this will be one week when we won't be alone in saying, "See you out at the ball game."

Meanwhile, local interest is slowly rising over the Labor Day grid battle at Russell Field between the Dragons and the Erie Academy Lions. What with coaching changes and this Forge-Hospital bill taking most of the space and the spotlight in the sporting world in this section this week, few people realize that another football season will be ushered in next Monday afternoon. For the fourth straight year the Dragons have invited the Lions to be their opening opponents and for the fourth straight season, also, the local school boys will be the under dogs. Erie schools usually pack too much reserve power for the Blue and White to offset the advantage and upset them, but it has been done, and the Dragon gridders will be out to make an honest effort to whip the Lions next week. And, while they will draw a good-sized holiday crowd, it is expected that many football fans from this section will be in Pittsburgh for the Steelers-Detroit Lions setto. The first time these teams have ever met, Forbes Field should be packed with pro grid fans seeking a chance to glimpse both clubs in their exhibition game and to diagnose their power before the National League season gets under way.

LIONS, DRAGONS GET READY FOR LABOR DAY GAME

The Warren High School Dragons will complete pre-game practices with this afternoon's session and another tomorrow in preparation to their Labor Day opener Monday at Russell Field against the Erie Academy Lions.

Coach Lowell Drake will bring a strong and heavy squad of schoolboy gridders into Warren on the holiday to battle the Blue and White, but today had not been able to come to a definite lineup of his starting eleven.

The clever Lion mentor has been handicapped this week by heavy rains in the Erie district forcing his squad inside on two occasions, but the squad which will be nearly thirty players expected at Russell Field, will be ready to give the Dragons a busy afternoon.

Meanwhile Coach J. B. Leidig is molding a starting lineup of his limited material in regard to experience. Warren will have a heavy team, as Blue and White teams go, but probably will give way weight man to man against Academy.

Season tickets are on sale at the high school or may be purchased from football players this week. Latest reports on the sale are to the effect that there will be a large crowd on hand to see the lid-lifting scholastic fray.

HOSPITAL CLUB GETS SERVICES OF HANK WISE

The game against the Forge Sunday will be only a stop on the holiday parade for the State Hospital for they are booked for Saturday, Sunday and Monday this weekend it was announced today.

And Hank Wise, who up until a month ago was tossing for the Forge, has signed to wear Hospital togs over the weekend to help them out of the three game splurge, the club being handicapped with a one-man hurling staff in Jim Rose, who is capable but has seen too many years of service to try an "iron man" stunt.

The Saturday opponent at the Hospital which is still indefinite will serve more as a warmup for the feature clash on Sunday.

It is expected that Chuck Clawson, Rose and Wise all will get a little exercise on the mound, probably each starting one game apiece. Clawson, while a better catcher than a pitcher, is the best bet to throw tomorrow's encounter, saving the two more experienced gunners until the Sunday and Monday games.

Meanwhile, the Forge is preparing to be sure the curtain falls on a final victory Sunday, and are sure that this time the Hospital will be just another ball club.

The interest in the game combined with the fact that Sunday will be Morrison Day at Wilder Field tends to draw a capacity crowd at Irvine for the game starting at three o'clock.

Ward is Favored To Cop Amateur

Omaha, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The boys in the Field Club's locker rooms will tell you that Marvin (Bud) Ward, the curly-haired husky from the far west, is heading toward another National Amateur Golf Championship.

Belting Bud, a hard-hitting shooter with the finesse of a professional, was rated tops in the semifinal field which battled down the field club's narrow, trouble dotted fairways in 36-hole matches today.

Bud's semi-final foe was the almost fragile appearing Bobby Riegel, a young man from Houston, Tex. Ward was expected to advance to the championship final against the winner of the match between good-looking Pat Abbott, the former movie extra, and tall Ted Bishop, the Bostonian.

This is Ward's third semi-final appearance. He got there in 1937, when he made his maiden start in the National, swept through to

Hogan Man to Beat In Play at Hershey

BY TOM REEDY

Hershey, Pa., Aug. 29—(AP)—Ben Hogan, an accomplished fellow with golf clubs when a prize is at stake, brought his winning ways home today and, after a brilliant first-round 69, looked like the man to beat in 72-hole $5,000 Hershey Open Championship.

Hogan, making his home playing debut as the Hershey professional, equaled the back-nine record of 32 strokes. His 69 tied Clayton Heafner, George Fazio and Harry Nettlebladt at four under par.

The swarthy Texas powerhouse, who looks small and hits them big, took over the Hershey job from Henry Picard last winter and since has won more than any other pro, scored lower on an average and has an unbroken string of 53 tournaments in which he finished in the money.

Chicago Bears Jar All-Stars By 37-13 With "T" Formation

BY WILLIAM WEEKES

Chicago, Aug. 29—(AP)—From the latest available evidence, it's going to take a lot of blasting to jar Chicago's Professional Football Champion Bears loose from their National League honors.

The evidence was presented last night at historic Soldier Field before a series record throng of 98,200 who saw the Bears, led by brilliant Sid Luckman, crush a battling squad of the headline stars of 1940 college football, 37 to 13, in the Chicago Tribune's eight annual all-star spectacle.

The triumph, the third in a row for the professional brand of football, was accomplished in a manner which indicated the Bulging Bears and their "T" formation could have done better if necessary.

The All-Stars with such 1940 greats as Michigan's Tommy Harmon, Sturdy George Franck of Minnesota, both All-America's, and Norman Standlee of Stanford's undefeated Rose Bowl victors in the battle front, made a contest of it for one period.

Luckman, whose passing and leadership were at concert pitch, fired a touchdown pass to Ken Kavanaugh in the first quarter, another to George McAfee in the fourth, one to Kavanaugh which set up another score, along with completing numerous others. To complement his passing, Luckman mixed in powerful line-crashing from Fullbacks Bill Osmanski, Gary Famigletti and Joe Maniaci, and smart running by McAfee, Ray Nolting, and Harry Clark.

Clark scored twice from close range and Bob Nowaskey accounted for the other Bear touchdown on a pass from Young Bussey. Lee Artoe, the Bears' star sophomore tackle, provided the other three points with a spectacular 46-yard place kick.

The All-Stars' big moments of glory came in the first period when Harmon whipped a pass to Franck for a score-tying touchdown, and in the final quarter when Charley O'Rourke, the little fellow from Boston College, shot a handsome 40-yard pass to Jackie Robinson, negro star from U. C. L. A., who ran six yards for the other touchdown.

GREAT LAKES SHIPYARD WORKERS BALLOTING

Cleveland, Aug. 29—(AP)—The National Labor Relations Board proceeded today with a collective bargaining election among em- ployes of seven yards of the Am- erican Ship Building Co. in six Great Lakes ports.

Hugh S. Sperry, regional direc- tor of the NLRB, said a stabiliza- tion agreement increasing wages and banning strikes or lockouts in Great Lakes shipyards, announced last night in Washington by Sid- ney Hillman of OPM, had no ef- fect on the previously scheduled election.

The yards are located in Toledo, Cleveland, and Lorain, O.; Super- ior, Wis., South Chicago, Ill., and Buffalo, N. Y., the latter having two yards.

Workers will vote for an AFL union, a CIO union, or neither.

ST. MARYS MAN FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL IN WEST

Chicago, Aug. 29—(AP)—A man identified from papers as J. D. Beaver, 73, of St. Marys, Pa., re- tired superintendent of the Pitts- burgh, Shawmut and Northern Railroad, was found fatally shot yesterday in a room at Stevens hotel where he was a guest.

On the bed beside the body were a discharged pistol and a note which asked that a brother, A. W. Beaver of Elkhart, Ind., be noti- fied. Police also found four sealed envelopes which were held for the inquest today.

Beaver, a former resident of Beaver Falls, had been active in civic affairs in St. Marys where he lived with Dr. William Black.

Harriman to Head Group to Go to Moscow

(From Page One)

Harriman's duties in the British capital.

The delegation to Moscow, which will meet with corresponding Brit- ish and Russian groups, may be appointed within a few days, the president told a press conference, and may have a half dozen mem- bers.

Harriman originally was sent to London, the president explained, chiefly to handle shipping prob- lems and assist in getting aid to nations resisting aggression.

But the position enlarged itself, Mr. Roosevelt said, to take in problems of production and sup- plies of all kinds, and the point was reached where the chief ex- ecutive needed another general trouble shooter.

Not only will Biggers take over Harriman's duties, but he also will attempt, Mr. Roosevelt said, to tie British production problems more closely to those of this country.

Everyone in the community is urged to attend.

Uniontown, Aug. 29—(AP)—A Fayette county grand jury indicted John Jose, South Union township tax collector, on charges of em- bezzlement of more than $13,000 in tax funds during 1940. A clerk in Jose's office reported last month the office had been enter- ed and the safe looted while Jose was on a fishing trip.

mends a reprimand. I concur in that finding."

The national commander said, however, he was revoking the sus- pension "in the spirit of unity and comradeship."

Addressing Southard, he added: "Your activities in certain or- ganizations have been definitely condemned by your comrades. Their admonition to you speaks for itself, and in the future I would conduct myself in the manner of a loyal member of this organiza- tion.

NO MORE SILK POPPIES

Philadelphia, Aug. 29—(AP). —The silk shortage has hit the Buddy Poppies the Veter- ans of Foreign Wars sell each year.

The national convention adopted a resolution today au- thorizing the poppy committee to have the 1942 poppies made of some other suitable mater- ial.

"I would conduct myself in a manner to be worthy of member- ship in the Veterans of Foreign Wars."

Delegates who had opposed Southard's suspension had argued that the proceedings were an at- tempt to gag him and that the ac- tion was an attack on free speech.

If precedent is followed, Vice Commander Max Singer of Boston moves up to succeed National Chieftain Dr. Joseph C. Menendez while the VFW auxiliary is elevat- ing Mrs. Alice M. Donahue, Glen Cove, N. Y., to replace National President Mrs. Mabel C. Tanner.

KISKI SCHOOL SOLD

Saltsburg, Aug. 29—(AP)—The Kiski school, preparatory school for boys, has been sold to new directors by the estates of Dr. An- drew W. Wilson, founder of the school, and Dr. William McCool, headmaster at the time of his death in 1938. L. M. Clark has been named president and Col. John J. Daub will continue as headmaster.

Farther north, the Red Army battled to save Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, on the west bank of the Dnieper.

Fighting was reported raging in pouring rain on the central front, with Russian counterattacks gaining ground and Russian units routing a German infantry di- vision. It was said at least 3,- 000 members of the division had been killed.

On the northern sector, the Red Army and its volunteer civilian units were reported fighting off German assaults on the approach- es to Leningrad.

A communique last night said fighting was stubborn on the en- tire front and told of the evacua- tion of Dnieperopetrovsk. It also said Red planes had raided the East Prussian city of Koenigs- berg and had sunk two German transports in the Baltic.

Soviet spokesman S. A. Lozov- sky, vice commissar of foreign affairs, announced late yesterday that the giant concrete Dniepers- troy dam and all its works, the pride of the Soviets and the first construction achievements of their first five-year plan, had been sac- rificed in line with Stalin's "scorched earth" policy rather than let the Germans use it.

BLACKOUT OF POWER IN ALTOONA IS AVERTED

Altoona, Aug. 29—(AP)—An, agreement calling for a govern- ment supervised election of a bar- gaining agency averted last night a strike threatened by CIO em- ployes of the Pennsylvania Edison Company in 10 south-central counties.

The truce was reached at a five- hour conference of representatives of the company and union with federal and state labor mediators.

The strike had been set for last midnight, and many residents had kerosene lamps and candles ready for a possible power shutdown. The Altoona Tribune started to print its morning edition several hours early as a precaution.

The once-thriving port had been a pocket of Russian resistance in German-conquered territory, chok- ed off and besieged by Reichswehr forces which has passed it in the eastward push through Estonia into Russia proper. Its capture winds up the German conquest of Russia's recently won Baltic buffer states.

The war bulletin from the fuehrer's headquarters said 19 Rus- sian transports loaded with troops, a destroyer and nine other naval vessels were sunk in Tallinn har- bor when German land, sea and air forces made the final assault on the beleaguered city yesterday.

Violent naval battles were be- lieved still to be raging, in the Finnish gulf, however, with Fin- nish and German fleets and air forces attacking dozens of troop- ships and warships which had fled from the burning capital. The din of the conflict was heard from Helsinki, 50 miles away.

Besides Tallinn itself, the Ger- mans took Paldiski, the Estonian capital's modern harbor 20 miles to the west, and thousands of pris- oners, the communique said.

NOVEL TWO-PIECE-EFFECT MODE
Pattern 4877
By ANNE ADAMS

Just the frock for larger women who love tailored wear—is this or- iginal style by Anne Adams, Pat- tern 4877. It is especially design- ed for slim lines, yet it has such novel details. Though one-piece in style, a two-piece effect is given by the bodice buttoning that goes right down past the waistline to the low double-pointed seaming. From here a center panel in the skirt gives the necessary flare. The V-neck is very slimming with its long, well-shaped collar—make it in contrast with cuffs to match. You'll like the unusual three- quarter length sleeves shown, though you can have them short or long if you prefer!

SPECIALTIES IN THE SPOTLIGHT

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The few buyers who stepped out in today's stock market turned to specialties and left most leaders to job over a slightly irregular range.

The ticker tape moped from the start and transfers for the full proceedings were at the rate of about 350,000 shares. Fractional variations were the rule near the final hour. Numerous issues were unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Aug. 29—(AP)—Wheat prices fell more than a cent, soy- beans three cents and other grains fractionally early today.

Profit taking and liquidation was touched off, traders said, by the announcement of the price ad- ministrator forbidding purely spec- ulative trades in fats and oils and dealings in lard and cottonseed oil were suspended for the time being.

Opening 3/8 lower to ⅛ higher, September 1.13⅝, December 1.17¾-3/8, wheat later declined all around. Corn started ⅛-3/8 down, September 77 3/8-¼, December 81 3/8-½.

NEW WEIGHT LAW TO BE IN FORCE FIRST OF MONTH

The new state law aimed at insuring full weight deliveries of coal becomes effective September 1, but officials said today its enforcement may be hampered by lack of funds.

An Associated Press dispatch states that the Internal Affairs Department is making arrangements to tighten regulations on deliveries of solid fuel but the department is placed in an embarrasing position because of the fact that the legislature would not provide funds for enforcement.

Provision could not be made for enforcement in the department's regular budget because the law had not been approved when it was drawn up. When the law finally passed, an appropriation of $50,000 was asked but the general assembly refused to grant it.

The problem of securing the necessary personnel had not yet been solved. The department estimates that at least eight or ten men will be needed to enforce the act.

Under the new law weighmasters come under the supervision of the Internal Affairs Division. The department will furnish forms for weighmasters' certificates, issued in triplicate when a load is weighed. One copy of the weight slip will go to the purchaser, one is retained by the weighmaster, and one by the person delivering the coal. The slip will show the name and address of the purchaser, date and hour when weighed, gross and net weight of the load, or divided lots.

An automobile which goes 18 miles on a gallon at 30 miles an hour will go about 12 at 60. Oil consumption is seven times greater at 55 miles an hour than at 30.

Tires in continuous runs generate such heat that in some cases the temperature runs as high as 12 degrees below the boiling point. Heat and oxidation are unrelenting enemies of rubber.

Confirmands Plan To Hold Reunion at Sheffield on Sunday

The Luther League of the Bethany Evangelical Lutheran church at Sheffield is sponsoring a confirmand reunion to be held on Sunday, when, it is reported, more than 100 former confirmands of the congregation will be present from out of town.

Two former pastors will be back for the occasion and all members and friends are cordially invited. Special services will be held and all will have an opportunity of visiting the Sunday School and Bible classes. These begin at 9:30 a. m.

At 10:30, there will be Holy Communion, with Rev. A. S. Pearson, of Montclair, N. J., returning to his former charge to preach the communion sermon. Pastor Pearson and Rev. Carl E. Lundgren, another former pastor now in Houtzdale, will administer the sacrament and Rev. Carl H. Gronquist, who recently assumed the pastorate, will have the altar service.

In the afternoon, starting at 2:30, a reunion service will be held and Dr. Felix V. Hanson, of Jamestown, N. Y., president of the New York Conference, will be the guest speaker. Greetings will be brought by Pastor Lundgren, also, and several vocal solos and choir anthems will add to the program.

Business Activity Exceeds All Levels During Past Week

Business activity in the Pittsburgh district exceeded all previous levels last week, an Associated Press dispatch states. A survey by the University of Pittsburgh reveals that the unusually large volume of department store sales that week was responsible for the spurt.

The week's business index was 151.4 per cent of the 1923-25 average and nearly a point higher than the record set the preceding week. The dollar volume of department store sales the past three weeks has been nearly 50 per cent greater than in the comparable period of 1940.

Industrial operations continued high, with steel at practical capacity. Forty-four of the district's 47 available blast furnaces were in production and carloadings of coal, iron and steel products also rose somewhat.

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The people here, I must say, like plenty of brass with their music, dining or dancing. . . . It is a preference I thought would wane, but then I guess I am just optimistic. . . . It hasn't waned, and it hasn't diminished, not that I have been able to notice. I was thinking about this the other night because I had dinner at the Astor roof, where Will Bradley's band is playing, and the Bradley organization—a very fine one, by the way—has plenty of brass.

It isn't that I'm necessarily against brass; it's just this—when they play too loud, for some reason my left arm begins to ache. . . . It aches from the elbow down. I don't suppose this makes good sense. But it does ache when I sit in a room where there is a band with a heavy trombone and trumpet section and the accent is on brass.

Bradley had a fine crowd on the floor and at the tables. I do not know him personally, but from where I sat—except when he had a trombone in his hands—he seemed shy. In fact, he seemed embarrassed. Probably when he reads this he will double up with laughter. I know once after observing Enric Madriguera I went back to the office and wrote how melancholy and sad he seemed to me. Next day he telephoned to say he had been laughing his head off and that he had never heard anything so peculiar.

AFTER a while I noticed that my arm had begun to ache, so I strolled out under the open sky and sat by a pool on an uncovered part of the roof and counted the stars that came down over the Times Building. There were seven of them.

There were ferns, or maybe they were palms—it was hard to tell in the low light—and there was a high stockade type of fence that fenced in the opened roof, and one sat there relaxed, with the soft breezes loafing in from the river, and thought, "How peaceful, how quiet. . . . New York seems a million miles away."

Yet I could have pitched my cigaret into Broadway. With a sling shot, I could have broken a window in the Paramount building. . . . If I had walked 20 feet, I could have looked across Times Square, and into Loew's State.

BUT I didn't. Why walk, even 20 feet, when you can close your eyes, lean back, and be anywhere you want to be? After a few moments my waiter came softly up and, motioning to the pool so invitingly covered with water lilies, I asked him, "Are there any fish in there?"

He said, "No sir, there are no fish in there," and it disappointed me because a pool without fish is a song unsung and a tale untold, and that, you will agree, is something that should never be.

Later I got into an elevator and went down into the damp, lame, limpid reality of Broadway. My seven stars over the Times Building were gone, obscured by low, gently moving clouds. A driver asked, "Cab?" . . . The running dispatches on the Times Building were telling tales of London, Berlin, Moscow, and far off Tokyo. It was reality, all right. To the driver I said "Yes," and went home.

the title in 1939 and here he is again.

He came into the semi-final round with a convincing 5 and 4 decision over Little Steve Kovach, the popular Pennsylvania kid who couldn't match Bud's skill on the second nine of their quarter-final round.

Riegel didn't carry as brilliant a reputation into the semi-final as Ward. In fact he had to play off to get into match play. But he's been going at a steady pace since he stopped Omaha Johnny Goodman in that surprising extra-hole first-round match.

NAVAL BATTLE RAGES IN GULF AS SOVIETS EVACUATE TO THE SEA

By the Associated Press

Nazi high command reports capture of Tallinn, capital of Estonia, after weeks of siege; naval battle rages in gulf as Reds evacuate by sea; Russians admit fall of Dnieperopetrovsk, destruction of $110,000,000 Dnieper dam; Germans, Finns reported tightening ring on Leningrad; Red armies battle to save Odessa, Kiev.

Japanese cabinet meets in emergency session, scans Japanese-American relations; Washington observers see Tokyo message to President Roosevelt as Japanese bid for peaceful settlement of Far East crisis.

British and Russian allies hasten completion of Iran occupation as resistance ends, to open backdoor supply route to Soviet.

British bombers smash at Duisburg by night, lash at Nazi-occupied French coast by day. Germans claim 30 RAF planes shot down in 4 hours.

BERLIN

By the Associated Press

Berlin, Aug. 29.—German forces have stormed and taken Tallinn, fighting a naval battle which apparently is still continuing, and have delivered a crushing blow to the Red naval forces in the Baltic, the German High Command announced today.

Besides raising Adolf Hitler's banner over the Estonian capital, naval base on the Gulf of Finland less than an hour by bomber from Leningrad, official announcements said air and naval attacks had sunk 32 Russian ships—22 transports and 10 war vessels—and heavily damaged seven others.

The Russians, who had defended Tallinn fiercely, were said by the Germans to have been literally rushed into the sea.

Frantic efforts were made to evacuate trapped Red Army forces by water, they said, and this accounted for the great concentration of transports.

German spokesmen called the end of Russian resistance in the rocketed Tallinn "another Dunkerque" but there was no indication on how many Russians managed to escape.

MOSCOW

Moscow, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The southwestern Red Army of Marshal Semeon Budyenny, much of which apparently has been saved from German encirclement by a stubborn, fighting retreat, opened a new phase of the battle of the Ukraine today from strong defense lines on the east bank of the lower Dnieper river.

The Russians covered the retreat by ruthlessly blasting to rubble their great Dnieperstroy dam and power plant, the largest in Europe, and indicated they had exacted a heavy toll of the Nazis before yielding the industrial city of Dnieperopetrovsk, 50 miles up the river from the dam.

Dnieperopetrovsk, with a population of more than 500,000 produced a large proportion of the Soviet's cast iron and steel.

The single important island of resistance to the Germans and their allies in the southwestern Ukraine west of the Dnieper was Odessa, Russia's largest port on the Black Sea. There Red sailors and soldiers, cut off from help by land, were prepared to defend the port of more than 600,000 persons to the very end.

Illinois Department Commander Is Reprimanded at V.F.W. Meeting

Earl Southard, After Being Censured by Head Of National Organization, is Restored to Former Status

ELECTION SCHEDULED

Philadelphia, Aug. 29—(AP)—Earl Southard, suspended Illinois department commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, was publicly reprimanded today before the organization's national convention and then restored to his former status.

Southard had been court-martialed because of his activities as secretary of the keep America Out of War Committee. Yesterday the delegates accepted a credentials committee report which excluded him.

The reprimand was carried out by National Commander Joseph C. Menendez as decreed by the findings of the court-martial, announced today for the first time. Immediately thereafter, Menendez ordered Southard seated as a delegate.

Silence greeted Menendez' announcement that the court martial had found Southard guilty, but when he declared the suspension revoked he was interrupted by applause.

"As comamnder-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars," said Menendez, "I approve the findings of the court. The court recom-

STATE HIGHWAY ENGINEER FALLS VICTIM OF POLIO

State Health Department Closes Office of Unit in Harrisburg When Employe From York is Stricken With Infantile Paralysis

QUARANTINE EXTENDED

Harrisburg, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The State Health Department today closed the highway engineers unit at Harrisburg, stopping work on designs for $10,000,000 of bridges, when T. Robert Graham, 39, of York, one of the engineers, was stricken with infantile paralysis.

The Health Department put the unit under a week's quarantine as state and local authorities followed the spread of the disease with rigid bans on gatherings of young people and the postponement of school opening next month in eleven counties.

The disease has taken a toll of 18 lives to date and stricken more than 250 persons, the bulk of them in eleven eastern and central counties.

The reporting of three new cases in Philadelphia and eight in other counties led to additional restrictions today, but Dr. J. Moore Campbell, director of the State Bureau of Health Conservation, indicated the lines of the outbreak area were about fixed at this stage.

While additional cases were to be expected in the 11 hardest-hit counties next month, he said, there was little likelihood that the outbreak would become statewide.

Dr. Campbell followed up the school closing order with a prohibition on gatherings of those under 16 at any public place in the 11 counties.

COMMUNISTS OFF PHILLY BALLOT

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The county board of elections today threw out nominating petitions filed by two Communist party members who seek a place on the November 4 ballot.

In a decision signed by Morton Witkin, president, and James C. Clark, a member, the board barred the two candidates under the O'Brien act of July, 1941, which denies a place on ballot to those affiliated with a party which seeks to overthrow the government by force.

The board also ruled that the petitions, signed by 9,834 persons, did not contain a sufficient number of valid signatures.

It was the first time since the act's passage that it was involved, and it was the first time here that a legal body has officially ruled that Communist party is

Details Revealed Regarding Five-day Discussion Between Axis Chiefs

Berlin, Aug. 29—(AP)—Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini have been meeting at the Fuehrer's headquarters on the eastern front since Monday, an official announcement said today.

The five day discussions, which did not end until today, covered all political and military developments the announcement said.

It was indicated that particular attention was paid to the duration of the war.

The text of the statement from the Fuehrer's headquarters said:

"The Fuehrer and Il Duce met at the Fuehrer's headquarters between Aug. 25-29 in discussions which took place at the Fuehrer's headquarters for the north and south fronts. There was thorough discussions of all military and political questions concerning the development and duration of the war.

"The questions were studied in spirit of close companionship and unity of fate which characterize relations of the Axis powers.

"The discussions were permeated with the unchangeable will of both peoples and their leaders to wage war to victorious end.

"The new European order which will emanate from this victory shall remove as extensively as possible the causes which gave rise in the past to European wars.

"Destruction of the Bolshevist danger and of plutocratic exploitation will create the possibility of peaceful, harmonious and profitable cooperation of all peoples of the European continent in the political as well as in the economic and cultural spheres.

"In the course of these discussions, the Fuehrer and Il Duce went to important points on the eastern front when also one of the Italian divisions employed in the fight against Bolshevism was inspected.

"On the occasion of their visit to the south front, the Fuehrer and Il Duce were greeted by General Field Marshal Von Rundstedt.

"Furthermore, visits were made to the headquarters of the Reichsmarshal (Goering) and of the commander in chief of the army."

Mussolini was accompanied by Dino Alfieri, Italian ambassador to Germany, General Ugo Cavallero, chief of the Italian general staff; and other high Italian military and civil officials.

Count Galleazo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, was not present because of illness.

The German ambassador to Italy, Hans-Georg Viktor Von Mackensen and the German military attache to the embassy went with Mussolini from Rome.

German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop and Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel participated in both the political and military conferences.

ANGLO-RUSSIANS PREPARE TERMS FOR IRAN PEACE

London, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Britain and Russia moved swiftly today to complete their occupation of Iran and capitalize on the gains of a joint invasion which ended in complete victory yesterday when the little Iranian army laid down its arms after a four-day show of resistance.

Official quarters declined to say whether the Allies had presented peace terms to Reza Shah Pahlavi's government, but informed sources expressed belief London and Moscow would stand on these points:

1—That the Iranian government hand over all Germans still in the country—estimated to include some 2,000 technicians.

2—That Iran guarantee facilities for transport of war supplies from the Persian Gulf to Russia.

3—That a steady flow of oil be maintained to feed the British navy, army and air force in the Middle East.

It was regarded as a foregone conclusion that the British and Russians would insist on retaining military control of all strategic points in Iran until the end of the war.

Moscow, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Soviet army newspaper Red Star said today that Germans trying to win over the people of Iran had told them that Adolf Hitler had become a Moslem.

President Roosevelt, Striving Anew to Step Up Arms Production, Concentrates Supreme Control of All Nation's Natural Resources in Seven-Man Board Which is Headed by Vice President Wallace

PURPOSE IS TO EASE CIVILIAN HARDSHIPS

Washington, Aug. 29—(AP)—President Roosevelt, striving anew to step up arms production, concentrated the supreme control of all the nation's natural resources today in a seven-man board headed by Vice President Wallace.

This board—a supreme-ministry of supplies—was charged with the duty of deciding what proportion of the country's materials and productive power must go for military essentials, and what may be spared for civilian needs.

These decisions perforce will result in some civilian hardships, the White House stated, but it reported that the Office of Production Management was seeking to ease them as much as possible.

President Roosevelt issued an executive order last night creating the new body—the Supply Priorities and Allocations Board. In effect, it meant a reorganization of some of the existing defense machinery, and a limited re-shuffling of some key defense personnel.

There has been criticism in many quarters for some weeks over the progress of the arms production drive, over reported friction and duplicating functions existing in various defense agencies and over the delays in allocating available raw materials to industry.

The new board was empowered to deal primarily with the supply question, but its scope evidently extended to numerous other problems which have given rise to complaint.

To it Mr. Roosevelt named: Vice President Wallace; William S. Knudsen, director general of OPM; Sidney Hillman, co-director of OPM; Secretary of War Stimson; Secretary of Navy Knox; Leon Henderson, head of the Office of Price Administration and civilian supply; and Harry L. Hopkins, special presidential assistant in charge of the lease-lend program.

For executive director of the board, the president selected Donald M. Nelson, former Sears Roebuck and Company executive who has been serving OPM as director of purchases.

Many officials were inclined to look on Nelson as the coming No. 1 man of the new organization.

CONDITION OF LAVAL REPORTED SLIGHTLY WORSE

BULLETIN

Paris, German - Occupied France, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Fears for the life of Pierre Laval mounted tonight as doctors attributed a sustained high temperature to a possible infection in the assassin's bullet wound, just below his heart. The possibility of peritonitis was regarded as a mortal peril.

Paris, Occupied France, Aug. 29—(AP)—The condition of Pierre Laval, shot by an assassin Wednesday, has grown slightly worse, according to a bulletin issued at the Versailles hospital at noon today.

Laval's temperature jumped to 39 degrees centigrade (approximately 102 degrees Fahrenheit), doctors said, adding that they feared the politician's wound below the heart had become infected.

The condition of Marcel Deat—who is also one of the top leaders of the group favoring stronger collaboration with Germany and who was shot at the same time as Laval—was declared improved. Deat's temperature had returned almost to normal.

Police pressed a thorough search for possible accomplices of Paul Colette, the assassin, and pushed complete investigations of each of Colette's statements. Three armed anti-Soviet volunteers arrested yesterday were still held.

Authorities feared that others,

CURRY IS OPTIMISTIC

BULLETIN

Washington, Aug. 29—(AP)—Admiral Emory S. Land proposed today construction of 100 oil-carrying barges as the speediest and least expensive solution for shortages of gasoline and fuel oil along the eastern seaboard. The blunt-spoken chairman of the Maritime Commission said he was opposed to construction of a huge new pipeline from southwestern oil fields to the east because it would take 750,000 tons of steel badly needed by the navy and Maritime Commission.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 29—(AP)—P. H. Curry, president of the South Penn Oil Company which has acceded to the government's order setting a ceiling for Pennsylvania grade crude prices, today expressed hope "that an increase in the ceiling will be secured."

Curry, returned from a conference in Washington with federal price administration officials, said:

"While we have nothing definite to report at this time, if the producers exercise a little patience we are hopeful that an increase in the ceiling will be secured."

He reported that the federal officials "seemed receptive" to the producers' objections to a ceiling with fixed prices 23 to 25 cents lower than Aug. 23 levels.

At the conference with Curry were Ralph T. Zook, Forest D. Zorn and W. Frank Miller, producers representing the Bradford district where most of the Pennsylvania grade crude is produced, and D. T. Ring of Columbus, O., representing southwestern Ohio and West Virginia where the Pennsylvania grade oil-bearing sands extend.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 29—(AP)—The Associated Retail Gasoline Dealers of Allegheny County, one of the first district organizations to support the "7 to 7" nightly curfew at service stations, today demanded that gasoline rationing be lifted in western Pennsylvania.

At a turbulent, four-hour meeting last night the association, which claims to represent most of the county's dealers, voted to send a resolution to Oil Coordinator Harold Ickes demanding immediate withdrawal of defense-imposed rationing.

At the same time the dealers postponed for two weeks a vote on whether the price of gasoline would be increased one cent per gallon.

60,000 GERMANS IN ARGENTINA BACKING HITLER

Ambassador Edmund Von Thermann, at Buenos Aires, Charged With Receiving Money For Use "Foreign to His Diplomatic Character"

CONTRIBUTORS LISTED

Buenos Aires, Aug. 29—(AP)—German Ambassador Edmund Von Thermann was charged by a congressional investigating committee today with receiving money from ostensible German welfare organizations and using it for ends "foreign to his diplomatic character."

The committee which has been investigating anti-Argentine activities for two months, submitted to the house of deputies its report of Nazi penetration.

It said there were 60,000 Germans in Argentine organized into cells and under oath to obey Adolf Hitler and other Nazi leaders "to the death."

Raul Damonte Taborda, committee chairman, in a synopsis of the report cited a receipt for 100,000 pesos allegedly bearing Von Thermann's signature and acknowledging payments by German welfare organizations which the committee charged were the "Nazi political machine in disguise."

The report mentioned books bearing hundreds of names listed as contributors to the German winter relief fund and grouped in tens. Each ten, or cell, was accompanied by a name—presumably of the cell leader—on the

SIX ARE DEAD IN CROSSING CRASH

Harrington, Del., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Returning home from a shopping tour, a brother, sister and her four young children were killed last night as a fast Pennsylvania railroad freight train demolished their automobile two miles south of here.

The dead were William J. Derrickson, 42, Harrington, his sister, Mrs. Violet Salmons, 40, Farmington, Del., and her children, Louise, 10, Grace, eight, Charles, six, and Stella, two.

School supplies and new clothes purchased earlier by Mrs. Salmons on a shopping tour here were strewn along the track as the victims' coupe was carried several hundred yards by the northbound freight. Three of the children were pinned in the wreckage.

JAPANESE ATTITUDE OUTLINED

Man-to-Man Discussion of Washington-Tokyo Relations by President Roosevelt and Ambassador Nomura Indicates Possible First Step Toward Sweeping Review of All Important Points at Issue

SIMILAR CONFERENCES ARE BELIEVED PLANNED

Tokyo, Aug. 29—(AP)—Premier Prince Konoye's message to President Roosevelt was prompted by "the very delicate relations existing between Japan and the United States following outbreak of the Russian-German war," the Japanese news agency Domei said tonight, and it reaffirmed Japan's desire to establish a "co-prosperity sphere" and permanent Pacific peace.

The Domei comment was made after all members of the cabinet and some of the highest military officials of the nation had held an emergency meeting to discuss American-Japanese relations following delivery of the Konoye message to Roosevelt in Washington yesterday.

By LLOYD LEHRBAS

Washington, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The man-to-man discussion of American-Japanese relations by President Roosevelt and Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura impressed diplomatic quarters here today as a possible first step toward a sweeping review of all important points at issue between the two nations.

Bolstering this conclusion was an official announcement from Tokyo this morning that the message which Admiral Nomura delivered to the president yesterday outlined the "imperial government's attitude toward the Pacific situation."

The message, this announcement said, was delivered at the behest of Prince Fuminaro Konoye, Japanese premier, after a special cabinet meeting.

The fact that the Japanese initiated yesterday's conference, in which Secretary of State Hull also took part, was held deeply significant—indicative, perhaps, of Tokyo's desire to achieve a peaceful solution of the pending problems, or at least some of them. There was no hint of what Prince Konoye's message contained.

However, Iichi Kishi, a government spokesman at the Japanese capital, said any conversations between Admiral Nomura and President Roosevelt certainly would embrace a discussion of shipments of United States materials to Russia—shipments which Nippon fears eventually might be used against her.

Secretary Hull disclosed that the Japanese ambassador was expected to participate in another

U. S. PLANES BEING USED AGAINST RUSSIA

Washington, Aug. 29—(AP)—Colonel Per Zilliacus, Finland's military attache, reports that American planes and artillery are helping the Finns in their attacks on Red Army forces near Leningrad in the Karelian Isthmus and farther north in a drive to cut the railway line to Murmansk.

Forty-four Brewster fighter planes which the navy released to the Finns when they were fighting Russia in 1939-40 are "doing extremely well," Zilliacus declared at a press conference yesterday. The artillery, he added, was delivered last summer, during the short-lived peace with Moscow.

Farmers Asked to Supply Extra Milk by Hiking Feeding Rations

Upper Darby, Aug. 29—(AP)—Eighteen thousand farmers were asked today to supply an extra 85,000,000 pounds of milk a year for Britain by increasing production of their nerds.

The Farm Security Administration's regional office here called on its clients throughout the northeast to adopt a "one for one" rule—the feeding of an extra pound of grain to produce an extra pound of milk. The FSA seeks an increase of three pints of milk a day per cow.

If all dairymen in the northeast adopted the "one for one" feeding rule, the FSA said, milk production could be stepped up by approximately 1,581,000,000 quarts a year—enough to provide every person in London with an extra pint daily.

Farmers also were urged to abandon the practice of selling calves when milk prices are high. Instead, the FSA recommended growing of replacements to increase herds.

Besides the expanded milk production, other FSA goals announced were an increase of 20 eggs per hen a year; an increase in pork production by preventing death of pigs between birth and weaning; and at least a 10 per cent increase in production and preservation of garden fruits and vegetables.

Ski Club Already Making Plans For First Snow Fall

The Warren Ski Club is getting an early start this year preparing for the first fall of snow. After last year's success, the club is encouraged to go ahead with many improvements for this winter.

From this point more varied skiing may be enjoyed as three different degrees of slope are available—one being a long easy run of more than half a mile for the beginners and another somewhat shorter for the more advanced and for the expert, a steep shuss of 1500 feet in length.

A real toboggan run is to be constructed and lights provided for night skiing and tobogganing.

QUIET HOLIDAY IS IN PROSPECT IN THE BOROUGH

Another holiday will pass virtually unnoticed so far as any local program or celebration is concerned the coming Monday, when Labor Day will be very quietly observed in Warren.

The week-end holiday is expected to bring a wholesale departure from Warren in favor of lake resorts, nearby celebrations and even more distant travel for visits and reunions.

With schools opening Wednesday Labor Day is considered the closing time for many of the summer resorts and similar gathering spots and the holiday brings many reunions and family travel trips on the close of the summer vacation season.

That many have already started the holiday observance was indicated by the large number of visiting motorists who were observed passing through Warren today.

Announcement has been made that the local office of the Department of Public Assistance will be closed both on Saturday and Monday.

The post office will observe the holiday. There will be no regular deliveries either in the borough or rural routes. Special delivery mail, however, will be dispatched as usual, and persons expecting important mail may arrange to have it delivered by making the request at the office Saturday.

Direct Relief In County Shows Slight Increase Past Week

Direct relief payments made to needy Warren countians during the week ended today show an increase of $4 over those of the previous week, according to State Treasurer G. Harold Wagner.

Tank-wagon prices now are 14.5 cents. Retail prices have ranged from 17½ to 18½. BACK TO SCHOOL NEXT WEEK

Yes, boys and girls, it's the hard truth. Vacation is over. Next Wednesday you'll be back in the school room again, so make the best of what good times may be in store for you Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

For many Warren tots it will be the start of a new life—a period of twelve consecutive years when they will be studying to equip themselves for either a college education or directly take up life's duties.

School for first graders brings a few tears to the mothers' eyes as they watch their children march off for the first time. The mothers are going to miss those little tots whom they have carefully watched and nurtured for the last six years and have scarcely let out of their sight. Now the children will be starting out on their own.

How fine that we in America can enjoy the benefits of a free school system. We only need to observe the turmoil and conflict taking place across the Atlantic today. To safeguard America and preserve our way of life means sacrifices but it will be worth it. Our children should never be faced with the shackles of bondage that have spread over most of Europe.

GOOD TIME TO TAKE IT EASY

It would be impossible to lay too much stress on the advisability of using extreme care during the next three days when the entire country will be observing the Labor Day weekend. Favored by good weather, it is safe to predict that the traffic will be heavier than at any other time during the year, which naturally means that the risks will be that much greater, not only to motorists, but for all other users of the highways.

Next Tuesday the Times-Mirror, along with all other papers in the country, will be carrying headlines telling of the terrible toll in lives lost in accidents during the double holiday. And most of these, strange to relate, will be recorded in the so-called country districts, for the National Safety Council's annual statistical volume of accident data states that more than three of every five traffic fatalities during 1940 resulted from accidents that occurred in rural areas.

There were 34,500 traffic deaths last year—21,000 resulting from accidents outside the cities. The rural area toll was seven per cent higher than in 1939. Traffic deaths in rural areas have increased one and one-half times from 1924 to 1940, and rose 25 per cent in just the last ten years. Two fatal accidents have occurred in the county this year, both in rural sections —one in Brokenstraw township, and the other in Clarendon.

It is recalled that 889 accidents occurred on the highways of Pennsylvania during the three-day holiday last September, and a careful analysis of their causes showed excessive speed and reckless driving was responsible for most of them.

A statement made by Walter J. Kress, acting secretary of revenue, is worth repeating here: "This year with more cars than ever on our highways and with the additional need of conserving the use of gasoline as a national defense measure, motorists not only will be protecting themselves and their fellow drivers on the road but also will be showing their patriotic spirit by driving slowly and carefully!"

When the temperature slips down around forty, as it did the last two mornings, and the fog hangs heavy over the river, then we know that summer is on the wane.

Governor James was supposed to be on a fishing trip, and according to the pictures of the next "first lady" he encountered excellent luck.

If you are going to take in the Lander fair, better get there tonight or tomorrow. They say it is the best ever!

And remember, the clocks are not to be turned back until the last Sunday in September.

Guess we've heard about the last of 1941 reunions!

• EDSON'S WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
Times-Mirror Washington Correspondent

Washington, Aug. 29—New policies aimed at bucking up morale of national guardsmen and selective service soldiers may be expected soon as a result of the appointment of Frederick Osborn of New York as a brigadier general in charge of the morale branch of the Army staff in Washington.

Just what those new policies will be, General Osborn isn't saying until after he concludes a series of conferences with G-3, the training and operations section of the general staff. Two of the big problems to be tackled are how to overcome the plain everyday boredom of the temporary soldier without pampering him, and how to put over without too much obvious propaganda-type doping, an educational program to sell the troops on the necessity of the present emergency.

General Osborne's appointment to the job came as pretty much of a surprise in Washington. His only military experience was as a Red Cross worker in France in the last war, though he has been a member of the Joint Army and Navy Committee on Welfare and Recreation for some time. He is 52, was graduated from Princeton in 1910. From 1914 to 1917 he was vice president and treasurer of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton railway, and after the war he went back to the road for two years as president. From 1921 to 1938 he was a partner in G. M. P. Murphy and Company, bankers, and among his other connections today is a directorship of the Fifth Avenue Bank of New York. His 6 feet 8 inches make him the Army's tallest officer.

The morale organization which General Osborn inherits from Brig.-Gen. James A. Ulio, who resigned because of ill health, has been entirely built since the beginning of the present emergency. The pre-1940 Army of 135,000 men didn't have to worry much about morale, but the induction of a million and a half national guardsmen and selectees has made it very much of a problem indeed.

The things General Ulio did to keep these temporary soldiers happy with their lot have been numerous, and not much has been spared in the way of expense to get results.

With the big part of the Army training in the south, it has been difficult for most of the northerners to get home, so one of the big efforts was establishment of recreational areas at well known resorts, where soldiers could spend week ends and leaves seein' the sights and not having to answer reveille.

In the camps themselves, everything possible has been done to make life enjoyable in off-duty hours. An elaborate program of movies has been booked. Theatricals and musical entertainment have been encouraged. Athletics have been sponsored. Post exchanges have been made almost as universal in their appeal as corner drug stores.

Libraries and camp publications have been well stocked and supported. Service clubs for the boys and guest houses for their folks are at all camps of any size at all. And civilian co-operation has been sought and received in every conceivable form.

The needless wrangling in Washington over extension of the one year's selective service has obviously been the cause of the current flare-up. Back of that is the simple fact that the Army and the civilian population too have not yet been sold on the seriousness of the emergency, the need of the defense effort, the all out characteristics of the crisis. What the Army brass hats would probably like to know is how you can have good soldier morale when the civilian morale is as low as it admittedly

ADOLF HITLER'S inept ally, Benito Mussolini, waged war on Greece, Oct. 27, 1940, but after suffering a succession of humiliating defeats, despite superior numbers and material, he was again salvaged by his boss in Berlin.

One of the vital defense links in Greece was the Corinth Canal, which the government pictured in 1927 on the stamp above. It cuts through the Isthmus of Corinth connecting the Ionian and Aegean Seas. Mussolini sought control of this canal as a shortcut to Il Duce's island possessions off the southwest coast of Asia Minor.

The Gestapo followed Hitler's armies into Greece and have given the Greeks enough incentive to conduct an underground movement. Coincident with the British "V" campaign, Serbs, Greeks, Bosnians and Montenegrins have been wearing white caps adapted from the headdress the Albanians wore in their long struggle against the Ottoman Empire.

Greek mountaineers and Evzones are banded into guerilla armies, continuing the war behind the lines.

is, with labor leaders dissatisfied, though they have better conditions than ever before, with farm leaders fighting for still higher parities and resisting price control, with business scared because it can't go on "as usual".

One idea on remedying this situation is that the morale of the Army can be bucked up to such a point that it can be a force for dispelling some of the gloom at home. It is a democratic army's privilege to gripe—at food, at pay, at officers, at everything. But if even just a little pride in the Army could be instilled into the letters which the soldiers write home, it would not only do the Army but the country as a whole a lot of tonic good.

Regular Army officers look for a big improvement of the morale situation during and after the present maneuvers. There the soldiers will have been kept busy, will have lived in the field with their officers, will have come to know what real soldiering is.

One of the biggest handicaps the new Army has had to overcome is just plain boredom.

COMMUNITY PROJECT

All men of the Gouldtown community who are interested in the beautification of the church grounds are asked to meet at the church each Saturday afternoon at one o'clock to continue work on the project started last Saturday.

With Our Boys In Virginia

It was a tired and weary bunch of fellows that came rolling into the A. P. Hill Military Reservation this morning but they went right to work and now we are all quite well settled and it is just another big day gone from the annals of our company work.

The entire division moved out of Indiantown Gap at just 6:00 a. m. and were on their way toward the new camp site. It was indeed one of the most impressive sight that anyone could have ever seen to witness the movement of such a large body of motor vehicles in convoy and it really was one of the largest convoys of its kind to ever go through this part of the country.

The convoy was split up into three different parts and each of the three convoys had a separate route. This of course was to eliminate the danger of congesting too much traffic. With nothing only minor mishaps such as engine trouble, and very little of this, the entire convoy, of which this company was a part, pulled into our bivouac area about 5:30 p. m. and prepared to make camp for the night. This area was located just one mile outside of a little Virginia town named Warrenton and it was very heart warming to the boys (when after supper and they were all settled for the night) to find that the town had prepared for our coming in that evening and all of the people were more than courteous and very much in the welcoming spirit. The Methodist church of the town had its recreation rooms open and provided the men with stationary and post cards. Also they gave them the liberty of using their ping-pong tables and full access to their library of magazines. As you left the church there were two very nice looking ladies who passed out a package of cigarettes to any of those who wanted them. It is towns and people like this that make one realize that there is patriotism in this old country whether it shows on the surface or not. It is also very heart warming to find that you are accepted in these different towns like you were a member of their own different social groups.

Our first day here at the A.P. Hill Reservation was rather a busy one as we all had to get our equipment set up in our tents and the necessary work which goes with making camp with tents, and I must say that it is no small job. All of the tents have to have the ropes tightened up on them and the sidewalls must be footed with a trench to drain off the water which runs off the top of your tent when it rains. Of course our old jinx stayed with us even though we are some two hundred miles from it. We had just nicely got ourselves settled when the sky started to get dark and it began to rumble in a very ominous tone. It wasn't long until down it came in torrents and the excitement started right there. The tents we have here are all new and of course the minute it starts to rain the material in them begins to shrink. Well if you could have seen these well dressed men of the army this afternoon you would have certainly laughed as they were running around in their shorts loosening tent ropes like mad and also getting a good cold shower besides. All in all the boys are quite on their toes for the tedious trip and we expect great things of them during this maneuver.

We haven't as yet received the notice as to what our work will be for the next few days but as soon as yours truly finds out, it will be in this column and we will try and keep you informed as to everything that goes on while we are down here.

As yet we haven't mentioned the weather down here, except that we had a little rain. Well if we thought it was warm in Pennsylvania we take it back because down here the sun really shines and it shines so very bright. We can't give you the exact temperature but it was one of the warmest days we have spent for quite some time and the members of the anti-tank battalion say that we haven't seen anything yet for the simple reason that they think it was cool down here when we pulled in, but we sure think that it was hot enough.

Things are rather mixed up down here at the present time and I can't get very much information as to what or when we are going to do anything so you will have to wait until some later date when we can give you all of the happenings that are taking place down here.

Don't forget the boys are a long way from home now and we will be expecting to hear from you often. As a reminder I will give you the address once more.

Chapter 29

Enter Greeley Morris

"ONCE I nearly got a job, not a good one, but a job," Carol went on. "A manager who had seen my performance in Green Apples and had liked me. I got as far as a week's rehearsals. That was all. Morris heard about it and I was fired.

"There was nothing for me in London then and so I came back. I changed my name to Carol Blanton again so that Morris couldn't find me, couldn't spoil my chances with the managers here if he still wanted to. And I was afraid he did.

"I pounded the pavements here for months. I did get a few chances to read for parts, but I read so badly. And I had had no experience. I couldn't tell them about Green Apples. I had to say, 'No. No experience at all.' Then one day I saw in the paper that Clint Bowers was going to do Green Apples. All of a sudden it came to me. There was a part I could do. Jeff, you saw what that critic said in Manchester. And Greeley Morris never came to America for any of his plays. He would never know if the girl who played Dina was Leila Gray. I was . . . pretty desperate then. There was no money left, none at all. Well, it was worth the chance and I took it."

She studied her fingertips intently. "You know the rest. I got the job and the day we opened I heard that he was to be here.

"I didn't know what to do at first. And then I thought . . . he was only to be here that one night and, if he shouldn't see me, if he should go on to Hollywood without knowing—I had to make Alice play that one night.

"I did it. I pretended my voice was gone, and then, when you had gone to the theater, Haila, then I remembered the pictures in front of the Colony, and I knew it wouldn't work. He couldn't help seeing that big picture of me plastered there, and he would know. It would be better if I played. Maybe he wouldn't say anything, maybe I could keep him from saying anything. You and Tommy came in when I was telephoning the theater to say that I'd be there. You didn't believe me, I could see that. But I . . . I couldn't explain.

"I wrote the note when I was alone in my dressing room and after it was written I didn't know what to do with it. I kept asking myself if it was worth while to plead with him or if I should just keep still and take my chance. Even after the play I was still muddled up. I didn't know what to do. And then, suddenly, I was sick. The kind of sick when you think you're dying and nothing matters at all. I forgot about that note and Greeley Morris and my job, forgot about everything but getting home and into bed. That was all. The next thing I knew I was in Bellevue."

She sank on the couch and covered her face with her hands. After a moment Jeff said, "Did you think it was Greeley Morris who tried to kill you, Carol?"

"I . . . I don't know. At first I did. When we met that morning in Bowers' office and he pretended not to know me, when he said that he had never heard of Lee Gray, then I though he was the one. But the next night when Eve was murdered, he wasn't even in the theater. And then . . . then I knew it couldn't be he."

"Carol, why were you calling him at his hotel? When I answered the phone?"

"I nearly fainted when I recognized your voice."

"Where was Crowley when you called?"

Crowley's Fault

"I HAD gone out for a walk and he was with me. And suddenly I had to talk to Morris. I had to find out what he was going to do. I didn't want him to tell the police about Lee Gray, the way he'd tell it, it would sound . . . if anyone told the police or Mr. Bowers or you, I wanted to do it."

"But if Crowley was with you . . ."

"I managed to lose him in the crowd and sneak into a corner drugstore without him seeing me. When I came out, he was running back and forth on Madison Avenue looking for me."

Jeff said ruefully: "If Crowley had only reported that he had lost track of you at that corner, and at that time, we would have known you were Lee Gray. Because I traced the call to that drugstore."

"He was so embarrassed at losing sight of me that I knew he'd never mention it to Peterson."

"The lug!"

Carol smiled faintly. "He didn't even know I had been in that drugstore; he couldn't have thought it would have mattered. I was only gone a minute. I knew the number and as soon as Jeff answered I hung up and ran out. I was afraid you had recognized my voice, Jeff."

"You only said one word. But if I had it would have saved you a lot of trouble and worry."

"Yes. Oh, I've almost told you all this . . . a thousand times. But I couldn't."

"Why, Carol?"

Her eyes found Steve's and there was a glistening of quick tears in them. "Steve. I didn't want Steve . . ."

He was beside her then, she was in his arms, sobbing into his shoulder. "It was such a nasty thing, all of it. So horrible, not like what I wanted for Steve and me. I was ashamed of it. And I was afraid of what Steve would do if I told him about Greeley . . ."

The white lines around Steve's mouth tightened like little bands, drawing it into a hard slit. "I'm going to be glad to see Mr. Morris."

"Steve!" Carol's face was ashen. "Steve, that's why I've been quiet! That's why I've kept all this inside me! I didn't want you and Morris to . . . Oh, Steve, you mustn't see him! Something will happen, Steve, something will happen if you do, and we'll . . . we'll lose each other, Steve!"

She turned to Jeff. She was crying. "Jeff, don't let Morris come here! You don't need to see him now. I've told you everything, I've explained it all to you! He doesn't have to come, does he?"

"Yes, Carol," Jeff said gently. "You see, we want Morris to explain a few things now."

"Then . . . then make Steve go before he comes. Don't let him . . . Oh, I'm afraid for Steve! He mustn't see Greeley Morris, he mustn't . . ."

We heard the elevator come to a groaning stop, quick footsteps in the hall outside, and then the impatient rapping at the door. Jeff turned the key in the lock. Peterson stepped to one side as the door opened, and Greeley Morris preceded him into the room.

Another Story

IN a voice monotonous with fatigue and so low that at times Peterson had to lean forward to hear her, Carol retold her story almost word for word. Only once did he interrupt her. "London, huh? So that accounts for the blank between the time you left Salt Lake City and turned up here in New York. We were working on that now, Miss Blanton." He nodded curtly and she went on, occasionally glancing furtively at Greeley Morris as if she feared, despite Steve's reassuring nearness, he might rise and start toward her. But Morris hardly moved during the long recital except to light a fresh cigarette.

Peterson moved to the window when Carol had finished and stood looking down into the street, his hands clasped behind his back. At last he turned and, facing Morris, said abruptly, "So you knew Miss Blanton in London."

"I knew Miss Gray in London."

"When did you first know that Carol Blanton was to appear in your play over here?"

"When Bowers cabled me the names of the cast."

"When was that?"

"Just before the show went into rehearsal."

"So you knew," Peterson snapped, "that Miss Blanton was in New York and in your play."

Morris smiled. "Naturally. But I didn't know that Miss Blanton was Miss Gray."

"You have no way of proving that?"

"Of course not."

"But you recognized her as Lee Gray when you saw Green Apples on opening night?"

"Certainly."

"And yet you denied knowing Lee Gray. Why?"

"That's fairly obvious, isn't it? Miss Blanton had been poisoned on the very night of my arrival, unfortunately. The police, apparently, were searching for someone with a past connection to her. I saw no reason to offer the evidence of my connection with her by explaining Lee Gray and implicating myself. And since Miss Blanton seemed unanxious to do so . . ."

"So. Very pretty. And the story Miss Blanton has just told . . . was it . . . has she been correct about your relationship with her in England?"

"Would you expect me to admit it if it were the truth?"

"Is it?"

"That I'm a degenerate, a maniac who scares little girls?"

"Why did Miss Blanton leave your show?"

Steve jumped up angrily. "Carol's told you why she left! Must you drag her through all that again? Isn't it bad enough that she has to stay here and . . ."

Peterson interrupted him. "She doesn't have to stay here. She can leave now if she wants to."

"I'll stay." Carol said quietly. Her hand reached up to Steve, drawing him down beside her. "Steve, I've got to stay."

"All right, Morris. Why did Miss Blanton leave your show?"

BY WM. E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

After taking a few days off for sightseeing, we remembered we were on a bridge tour, so our foursome headed for Albuquerque, N. M., to visit with C. H. Fulwiler, president of the Pacific Bridge League.

We had seen Fulwiler in San Francisco and Los Angeles and discussed the possibilities of the Pacific Bridge League joining with the American Contract Bridge League. I am happy to say that all bridge organizations in the United States are now under the banner of the American Contract Bridge League, the Pacific Bridge League having become the western division of the A. C. B. L.

When our business was completed, the conversation drifted to bridge hands. Today's hand, which Fulwiler played in one of the events of Bridge Week on the Pacific coast, I think interesting enough to pass on to you.

North and South got to three no trump rather optimistically. From the sight of their cards, the contract is hopeless after the spade lead. Fulwiler (North) held off the first two rounds of spades, and then West was forced to shift. He tried the jack of diamonds. North played low, East won and continued spades, forcing the ace. The three of hearts was discarded from dummy.

Fulwiler then laid down the ace of clubs and was happy to see the queen drop. He immediately took his four club tricks, West discarding hearts. Then on a diamond lead, Fulwiler put up the ace, for fear of losing the trick to East. His only remaining chance was to lead his singleton heart and finesse and this won three heart tricks for the contract.

Have you ever seen such an array of insufficiently guarded honors?

COLE HILL

They were accompanied home by George Cole of Warren and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Wentworth and daughters, Charlotte and Clara Mae and Miss Doris Crew, of Pittsfield.

Several members of the Cole family were also members of the Evangelical Sunday school picnic.

A fine sermon was delivered in the Garland Methodist church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock by the pastor, the Rev. Dwight Jack, of Youngsville. Miss Metzger and Mrs. Jack of Youngsville, sang a duet. Rev. Mr. Jack's next appointment will be September 7th. Everybody is invited.

The Torpedo Sunday school meets every Sunday at 10:30 o'clock EST. Everybody is invited.

A. P. Hill Military Reservation, Va., Aug. 29—(AP)—Tendency of trucks to bunch up on roads is one of the greatest failings of Pennsylvania's 28th Division in maneuvers, Major General Edward Martin noted today.

He made this observation as infantry supported by field artillery units started war games that will continue to Sept. 15. The commanding officer also listed poor camouflage among the shortcomings of his troops and called for improvement in getting information back to rear units.

The plan of training for the division calls for drills in smaller units, mostly in brigades, during the first week here, General Martin said, with troops taking the field against each other during the second week. A division inspection is scheduled for the final week.

A LAUGHING MATTER

WM. S. KNUDSEN'S FAVORITE STORY

"My grandson is three years old and his name is Bill. He's always taking me down a peg or two. He hasn't yet arrived at the stage when he calls me grandfather. He calls be 'Big Bill.'

"When I got my decoration from the King of Denmark, the Danish consul in Detroit came to my office and put it on my desk. I told him I had done nothing to warrant any decoration, but he said the country I originated in had decided to honor me, so that was that.

"I took it home, and set it on the table. Then I announced to the family circle, including 'Little Bill,' that I was now a Knight.

"Little Bill spoke right up.

"'Which one,' he asked, 'tomorrow night, Friday night, or Saturday night?'"

TWO SLAYINGS IN WASHINGTON ARE CLEARED UP

Washington, Aug. 29—(AP)—Metropolitan police, claiming an amazing series of confessions from a one-time undertaker's assistant, today announced the solution of two crimes that shocked the capital—the rape-slaying of a pretty government stenographer and the rape-slaying of a young bride of a few weeks.

Edward J. Kelley, acting superintendent of police, said that the man, Jarvis Roosevelt Catoe, 38-year-od Negro, had confessed not only in these two cases, but in a series of five other sex homicides both here and in New York. Three of the victims were white, four Negroes.

The superintendent said he was satisfied the confessions were true and they "positively convinced him" that he had the man who raped and strangled Miss Jessie Elizabeth Streiff, war department employee from Des Moines, Ia., whose nude body was found hidden in the garage of a retired professor here June 16.

Kelly also announced that the undertaker's helper had made a confession in the rape-slaying of Mrs. Rose Simon Abramowitz, 25, who was found dead in her apartment here less than a month after she had come to the city as a bride from Kansas City, Mo.

Then came the rape-slaying of Mrs. Evelyn Andersen, 26, whose body was found August 4 in a Bronx lot. It was this case that led to the apprehension of the Negro now in custody, and Superintendent Kelly said this was the first of the slayings on which a confession was obtained.

Superintendent Kelly said the sex slayings covered by the series of confessions took place between Dec. 1, 1939 and the present month. In addition to the slayings, Kelly said, the prisoner had confessed to four other rapings here and two attempted attacks. These involved Negro women, he said.

Philadelphia's three latest cases brought the total reported there to 34, but school closing has not yet been directed by the state. Parochial schools, however, delayed their opening in Philadelphia for a week, until September 8.

In Brookville, Jefferson county, the school health secretary announced classes would not be resumed before September 15, although only two cases had been reported, and none in the past week. Theaters, skating rinks, the Y. M. C. A. and churches were asked to bar those under 21.

In Harrisburg, five churches announced abandonment of Sunday school classes for children on the coming Sunday.

similar talk, or possibly a series of discussions, designed to clarify the situations which have arisen from conflicting policies of the two great powers which flank the Pacific.

Since the Japanese premier made the unusual gesture of communicating directly with President Roosevelt, the intensely interested diplomatic observers envisaged the possibility of some spectacular suggestion for a conference designed to clarify the tense situation in the Far East.

The simplest interpretation of the potentialities of the Japanese premier's message was that Prince Konoye wished to set the diplomatic stage for a series of conferences between the president, secretary of state, and Japanese ambassador to explore thoroughly the possibilities of an eventual peaceful agreement on conflicting policies.

Within the realm of possibilities, one informed diplomat said, was that Prince Konoye, taking a leaf from President Roosevelt's own book, may have suggested a personal meeting "somewhere in the Pacific," patterned after the historic conference between the president and Prime Minister Churchill "somewhere in the Atlantic."

DR. WEAVER IS RE-ELECTED U. B. SUPERINTENDENT

According to word received from Camp Findley at Findley Lake, N. Y., Dr. S. Paul Weaver, of Jamestown, N. Y., and formerly of Warren, has been reelected superintendent of the Erie Conference of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ for the eighth consecutive year.

The action was taken by delegates at the annual convention of the Erie Conference, being conducted by Bishop G. D. Batdorf, of Harrisburg.

Another feature of yesterday's session was the annual memorial service conducted by Rev. C. E. Dibble, pastor of the Warren church of the denomination. Among those honored in this tribute were Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Platz, retired minister who was fatally injured in an automobile accident near his home at Grand Valley, and his wife, who shortly followed him in death.

In presenting the annual report during the afternoon, Dr. Weaver said the conference had made splendid gains in all lines of work. Other reports included that of committee chairmen and work of Bonebrake Seminary.

The Warren pastor was also in charge of last evening's service, which opened with a song service in charge of Mrs. O. E. Williams, wife of another former local pastor.

The conference continues through Sunday, with special programs, addresses and business sessions on the calendar.

They pointed out that the vice president's numerous other duties would not permit him to be a full time chairman. Thus the day-to-day work in this tremendously important role would devolve on Nelson.

One of the major personnel changes was Nelson's appointment to succeed Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., as head of OPM's priorities division. It is this divison that will see to the distribution of available supplies according to the super-board's policies.

Stettinius, former chairman of the U. S. Steel Corporation, was shifted from OPM to the post of Lend-Lease Administrator, although the complete aid program will continue under the general supervision of Hopkins.

ment of gasoline sales now effective along the eastern seaboard.

Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, was called before the special senate group investigating shortages in petroleum products to supply data on tankers which normally haul millions of gallons of gasoline and fuel oil from the Gulf ports to the Atlantic seaboard.

The warning that west coast motorists soon may be limited at gasoline filling stations came from Ralph K. Davies, acting petroleum coordinator, who filled both sessions of initial hearings yesterday with a long survey of the present situation.

Several of the five senators conducting the inquiry wanted to know why only motorists in the populous east had been asked to conserve gasoline. Some said that the entire country should share in national defense burdens.

MOTORISTS

Washington, Aug. 29—(AP)—Vacationists and other motorists need not worry about the possibility of being stranded in faraway places because of the gasoline shortage. So says Ralph K. Davies, acting petroleum coordinator.

Chairman Maloney (D-Conn) raised this question at a Senate investigation and Davis replied:

"I can's conceive of anyone being stranded anywhere."

Davies agreed but explained that officials had been more than busy trying to cut gasoline use in the east and that they planned a similar reduction of 15 percent in supplies for retail outlets on the Pacific coast.

THE VOICE of the FANS

(Note—Due to the fact that the sports department has received so many letters this week concerning the forthcoming Irvine-Hospital baseball game at Wilder Field Sunday afternoon, it is impossible to print all contributions. Those which were from more authoritative sources were used first in every case. And remember, fans, the department will take letters on all sports, so vary the subjects if you wish.)

August 29, 1941

We are sorry we must drag our private feud with Mr. Gardner into the open as has been the case in the past few days.

We are sorry he takes the attitude he does. We don't think his team is as good as he says.

We are sorry that the youth of his team makes it an irresistible force to be thrown against the immovable stone wall of the seasoned Forge team.

We were sorry to see that the heretofore highly esteemed Mr. Passinger has thrown caution to the winds and has placed his betting power (and vocabulary) at the disposal of the Hospital children. (Sports Ed. Note—Ahem! Jimmy, pal, tell me where you've seen that I'm betting on or predicting the outcome of this game. This department is neutral and will remain so.)

We are sorry but experience keeps a dear school—and the Hospital boys are about to enter the college of that school on Sunday.

We are sorry that some people are going to be disappointed. It won't be the fans—most of them are adults. But youngsters are easily hurt.

We're sorry for all these things. But when a man as old as Mr Gardner starts making rash statements to the newspapers we actually pity him. So—most of all we're sorry for Mr. Gardner.

So sorry.

Jim Kannen.

(Sports Ed. Note—It appears that in the above letter Mr. Kannen is sorry and thinks the Forge will win. We're sorry, too.)

Howard Pollet is a young fellow with whom baseball fans might as well get acquainted, because he is going to be a great star and may help squeeze the St. Louis Cardinals into this year's National League championship.

Pollet is the 20-year-old southpaw who turned the Texas League upside down for Houston before the Cards promoted him a couple weeks ago. Down there he won 20 and lost four, had an earned-run average of 1.06, and pitched five shutouts, including a no-hitter.

Yesterday he shut out the New York Giants, 5-0, on three scattered singles. Previously he had beaten the Boston Braves, 3-2, on four hits, and had lost to the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3-2, while giving seven safeties.

His triumph over the Giants came while the Dodgers had an open day and shaved Brooklyn's first-place margin to one game.

The National League had another spectacular pitching show as Boston downed the Chicago Cubs, 2-1. Tom Earley held the Cubs to two hits, one of them a homer by Phil Cavarretta in the ninth. Vallie Eaves pitched four-hit ball, but forced in a run in the first with a walk and gave another on Max West's homer in the fourth.

Pittsburgh edged out the Phillies, 3-2, with three runs in the ninth, two of them on a double by Little Lee Handley.

The New York Yankees maintained their 17-game lead in the American League by bopping the St. Louis Browns, 8-5, in 10 innings.

Tom Henrich knocked in two of the 10th inning runs with a double. He had hit his 26th homer with one on in the third.

Thornton Lee, the year's outstanding lefthander in the American League, chalked up his 17th victory by holding the Washington Senators to four singles while the Chicago White Sox rolled to a 4-0 shutout. Taft Wright had a perfect day at bat with a double and two singles.

Rudy York hit a homer with the bases loaded in the seventh inning to give the Detroit Tigers an 8-7 triumph over the Boston Red Sox after homers by Ted Williams and Joe Croning had headed the Sox into an early lead.

Dick Siebert singled with the bases loaded to score three runs in the seventh and propel the Philadelphia Athletics to a 5-3 victory over the staggering Cleveland Indians. The A's opened with a pair of runs off Al Milnar in the first, but Cleveland clawed back with three tallies in the same frame. However, Bill Beckman, who replaced Johnny Babich with one out in the first inning, held the Indians to four hits the rest of the way.

CASEYS ANNEX CITY SOFTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Forcing the play over the entire route, the K. of C. defeated the Recreation Center last night in the deciding game of the City League softball championship series, by a score of 8 to 6.

Two runs in the eight inning broke a tie at six runs apiece and gave the Caseys the gonfalon.

Harry Wooster was the winning pitcher with Ed Seaquist the loser. Bruno Salerno hit a triple for the winners, and Harry Wooster doubled to pace the club to victory.

The K. of C. was the underdog throughout the series, having only one pitcher, Wooster, which was a handicap, because it is hard for a team to be at full strength with one hurler having to do all the tossing. However, after losing the first game 13-3, they retaliated with a 4-1 win and then last night's deciding decision.

MIAMI MAID IS CHOICE TO COP COURT TOURNEY

Philadelphia, Aug. 29—(AP)—Doris (Babe) Hart, 16-year-old Miami, Fla., starlet, had a chance today (1:30 p. m. EST) to become the first player south of the Mason-Dixon line to win the National Junior Girls Tennis Championship.

Second seeded Miss Hart earned the right to meet defending champion Louise Brough, top ranked performer from Beverly Hills, Calif., in the finals of the 24th annual event at the Philadelphia Cricket Club.

The Miami maid staged a sensational rally yesterday to turn back Little Shirley Catton, Alameda, Calif., 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, in a brillian battle that lasted an hour and 15 minutes. Miss Hart's devastating forehand cross court drive finally gave her the upper hand.

In contrast, Miss Brough overwhelmed Barbara Krase: San Francisco, 6-0, 6-3, in the other semi-final brush lasted but 25 minutes. The defending queen ripped off 15 straight points and allowed her nervous opponent but two in the first set.

After challenging for the singles crown, Miss Hart and Nellie Sheer, Miami Beach, were slated to defend their doubles championship against Miss Brough and Gertrude Moran, Santa Monica, Calif. The Hart-Sheer duo reached the last round by trouncing Miss Catton and Miss Krase, 6-3, 6-2. Miss Brough and Miss Moran beat Mary Ann Morgenstern and Barbara Ann Brooke, 6-3, 6-4, in an All-California clash.

PARALYSIS MAY POSTPONE MANY GRID CONTESTS

Philadelphia, Aug. 29—(AP)—More than 200 scholastic football games will be affected by the recent request of the Pennsylvania Inter-Scholastic Athletic Association for high schools in the infantile paralysis quarantine zone to suspend practice and games during the emergency.

The request that schools in 11 eastern and central Pennsylvania counties set back opening of fall athletic activity until Sept. 15 will have a widespread effect upon the current season, reaching schools in those counties still not under the quarantine. Many already had started grid practice while others planned to get under way next week.

BASEBALL, WITH OLD-ITME ACCENT, TO BE ON TAP AT WILDER FIELD NEXT SUNDAY; GRID FRACAS HERE MONDAY, BY THE WAY

It is our private opinion that when the Hospital and the Forge battle Sunday at Irvine, fans will see an old-time ball game, where something other than balls and bats will fly. Of course, this is no promise, but should the hostilities go along the right trail, you can look for either side to cut loose with some of that fighting spirit that made baseball what it is today. Through the Voice of the Fans column on this page this week you've heard both sides, seen a verbal battle before the feature attraction, and now a capacity crowd is steamed up and ready to trek to Wilder Field to see just how good both teams are under pressure. The State has gained enough confidence through their 4-4 tie of last week to be ready to stake everything in Sunday's tussle. And the Forge has vowed that they'll skin the hide off those young "bucks" up North Warren way. This sanctum was informed yesterday afternoon that Hank Wise has been added to the mound staff, now giving the Hospital two tossers instead of only one in the veteran Jim Rose. The move was not made in an effort to stack the lineup for the Forge game, but because the North Warren crew plays three games over the weekend, a little too much for any single hurler.

The Hospital management made it clear that they didn't fear the Irvine maulers and have a plan in mind to mold the Forgers into just the shape they want them when they get together this weekend. Business Manager Joe Gardner didn't make an announcement concerning his starting moundsman, but opined that youthful Chuck Clawson was, in his estimation, good enough to flog the Irvine "rookies." But it won't be that easy. Clawson's a good chucker, and would satisfy maybe for five or six sessions, but his experience on the mound hasn't been sufficient to teach him how to play a smart game in that position yet, and the youngster would wear himself out before retiring a team like the Forge over a nine-inning route. The Morrison crew, meanwhile, will offer Gagliardi or Hines, it is believed, up to the Hospital as the starting delivery boy. And either of these pitchers is a capable and steady tosser who can keep most teams under control. In regard to Wise again, Hank left the Forge club about a month ago and this week signed with the local team to pitch in one or more of their weekend contests. It is possible that he'll be in there against his former mates, which would make everything just rosy. It's the best baseball offering fans in this section have been presented this year. And this will be one week when we won't be alone in saying, "See you out at the ball game."

Meanwhile, local interest is slowly rising over the Labor Day grid battle at Russell Field between the Dragons and the Erie Academy Lions. What with coaching changes and this Forge-Hospital bill taking most of the space and the spotlight in the sporting world in this section this week, few people realize that another football season will be ushered in next Monday afternoon. For the fourth straight year the Dragons have invited the Lions to be their opening opponents and for the fourth straight season, also, the local school boys will be the under dogs. Erie schools usually pack too much reserve power for the Blue and White to offset the advantage and upset them, but it has been done, and the Dragon gridders will be out to make an honest effort to whip the Lions next week. And, while they will draw a good-sized holiday crowd, it is expected that many football fans from this section will be in Pittsburgh for the Steelers-Detroit Lions setto. The first time these teams have ever met, Forbes Field should be packed with pro grid fans seeking a chance to glimpse both clubs in their exhibition game and to diagnose their power before the National League season gets under way.

New York, Aug. 29—(The special news service)—Mike Jacobs admits he "ain't had a laugh like it isnce the petunias came up" . . . Here everybody's mourning that the world series'll cut into the Louis-Nova gate—and Uncle Mike only has $125,000 advance orders in the till already . . . and if the National League is such a great pitchers' loop, how come the three top lifetime records in the big time today are owned by American League elbowers? . . . Lefty Grove with 300 wins, Red Ruffing with 245 and Ted Lyons with 243 . . . In case you haven't noticed, the next game the Yanks win puts the old mathematical elimination slug on the Tigers—who only copped last year's flag . . .

Dis-a and Dat-a

The thing that made up Larry MacPhail's mind about bringing Augie Galan to Brooklyn instead of letting him escape to Los Angeles was that Augie always batted .320 in Ebbets Field as a Chicago Cub . . . Glenna Collett Vare is hitting 'em as good as ever . . . The ex-golf queen was one over even fours walloping another gal 6 and 5 in a tournament match up Rhode Island way a couple of days ago . . . After giving his Iowa sophs the double-o, Eddie Anderson didn't even bother taking his crying towel out of the mothballs . . . Frisco is bidding for the 1942 PGA tournament . . . and the Baltimore Sun's C. M. Don Donaghy, Philadelphia Evening Bulletin: "Larry MacPhail staged a fashion parade at the Dodgers' ball park before a ball game . . . It is now apparent why Blimp Phelps fled the Dodgers' fold. What ball player wants to go down in history as the man who modeled the stylish stouts?.

Genius

The winner of this week's furlined handkerchief is the brilliant mind in Joliet, Ill., who invented a softball game with three teams playing at the same time. The whisper is the latest frowns came when Jimmy wanted Burleigh Grimes as coach and the office signed Kiki Cuyler . . . There's more than $21,000 in unclaimed winning bets piled up in the Saratoga secretary's office waiting to be collected . . . Don't throw your mutuel tickets away till the result's official, folks.

Bob Blattner, the new second sacker Pepper Martin sent up from Sacramento to the Cards, got his start winning table tennis championships . . . They waited nine years for Seabiscuit to come along and bust Sun Beau's money-winning record in 1940 . . . Now Whirlaway looks like a cinch to do it by the time the Santa Anita handicap comes 'round . . . He needs abuot $117,000 more . . . What's this about Henry Armstrong thinking of coming back under a manager other than his old pal Eddie Mead? . . . Say it ain't so, Hennery . . . Dick Wakefield, the Tigers' $45,000 beauty, is slated for Buffalo next season. . . . Piedmont League folks say he's "good hit, no field" in their loop . . . And up at Rochester the other night, side attractions to a ball game included an egg-throwing contest, a walking competition and a race to see who could circle the bases and fill a pipe fastest. . . . LIONS, DRAGONS GET READY FOR LABOR DAY GAME

The Warren High School Dragons will complete pre-game practices with this afternoon's session and another tomorrow in preparation to their Labor Day opener Monday at Russell Field against the Erie Academy Lions.

Coach Lowell Drake will bring a strong and heavy squad of schoolboy gridders into Warren on the holiday to battle the Blue and White, but today had not been able to come to a definite lineup of his starting eleven.

The clever Lion mentor has been handicapped this week by heavy rains in the Erie district forcing his squad inside on two occasions, but the squad which will be nearly thirty players expected at Russell Field, will be ready to give the Dragons a busy afternoon.

Meanwhile Coach J. B. Leidig is molding a starting lineup of his limited material in regard to experience. Warren will have a heavy team, as Blue and White teams go, but probably will give way weight man to man against Academy.

Season tickets are on sale at the high school or may be purchased from football players this week. Latest reports on the sale are to the effect that there will be a large crowd on hand to see the lid-lifting scholastic fray.

HOSPITAL CLUB GETS SERVICES OF HANK WISE

The game against the Forge Sunday will be only a stop on the holiday parade for the State Hospital for they are booked for Saturday, Sunday and Monday this weekend it was announced today.

And Hank Wise, who up until a month ago was tossing for the Forge, has signed to wear Hospital togs over the weekend to help them out of the three game splurge, the club being handicapped with a one-man hurling staff in Jim Rose, who is capable but has seen too many years of service to try an "iron man" stunt.

The Saturday opponent at the Hospital which is still indefinite will serve more as a warmup for the feature clash on Sunday.

It is expected that Chuck Clawson, Rose and Wise all will get a little exercise on the mound, probably each starting one game apiece. Clawson, while a better catcher than a pitcher, is the best bet to throw tomorrow's encounter, saving the two more experienced gunners until the Sunday and Monday games.

Meanwhile, the Forge is preparing to be sure the curtain falls on a final victory Sunday, and are sure that this time the Hospital will be just another ball club.

The interest in the game combined with the fact that Sunday will be Morrison Day at Wilder Field tends to draw a capacity crowd at Irvine for the game starting at three o'clock.

Ward is Favored To Cop Amateur

Omaha, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The boys in the Field Club's locker rooms will tell you that Marvin (Bud) Ward, the curly-haired husky from the far west, is heading toward another National Amateur Golf Championship.

Belting Bud, a hard-hitting shooter with the finesse of a professional, was rated tops in the semifinal field which battled down the field club's narrow, trouble dotted fairways in 36-hole matches today.

Bud's semi-final foe was the almost fragile appearing Bobby Riegel, a young man from Houston, Tex. Ward was expected to advance to the championship final against the winner of the match between good-looking Pat Abbott, the former movie extra, and tall Ted Bishop, the Bostonian.

This is Ward's third semi-final appearance. He got there in 1937, when he made his maiden start in the National, swept through to

Hogan Man to Beat In Play at Hershey

BY TOM REEDY

Hershey, Pa., Aug. 29—(AP)—Ben Hogan, an accomplished fellow with golf clubs when a prize is at stake, brought his winning ways home today and, after a brilliant first-round 69, looked like the man to beat in 72-hole $5,000 Hershey Open Championship.

Hogan, making his home playing debut as the Hershey professional, equaled the back-nine record of 32 strokes. His 69 tied Clayton Heafner, George Fazio and Harry Nettlebladt at four under par.

The swarthy Texas powerhouse who looks small and hits them big, took over the Hershey job from Henry Picard last winter and since has won more than any other pro, scored lower on an average and has an unbroken string of 53 tournaments in which he finished in the money.

Chicago Bears Jar All-Stars By 37-13 With "T" Formation

BY WILLIAM WEEKES

Chicago, Aug. 29—(AP)—From the latest available evidence, it's going to take a lot of blasting to jar Chicago's Professional Football Champion Bears loose from their National League honors.

The evidence was presented last night at historic Soldier Field before a series record throng of 98,200 who saw the Bears, led by brilliant Sid Luckman, crush a battling squad of the headline stars of 1940 college football, 37 to 13, in the Chicago Tribune's eight annual all-star spectacle.

The triumph, the third in a row for the professional brand of football, was accomplished in a manner which indicated the Bulging Bears and their "T" formation could have done better if necessary.

The All-Stars with such 1940 greats as Michigan's Tommy Harmon, Sturdy George Franck of Minnesota, both All-America's, and Norman Standlee of Stanford's undefeated Rose Bowl victors in the battle front, made a contest of it for one period.

Luckman, whose passing and leadership were at concert pitch, fired a touchdown pass to Ken Kavanaugh in the first quarter, another to George McAfee in the fourth, one to Kavanaugh which set up another score, along with completing numerous others. To complement his passing, Luckman mixed in powerful line-crashing from Fullbacks Bill Osmanski, Gary Famigletti and Joe Maniaci, and smart running by McAfee, Ray Nolting, and Harry Clark.

Clark scored twice from close range and Bob Nowaskey accounted for the other Bear touchdown on a pass from Young Bussey. Lee Artoe, the Bears' star sophomore tackle, provided the other three points with a spectacular 46-yard place kick.

The All-Stars' big moments of glory came in the first period when Harmon whipped a pass to Franck for a score-tying touchdown, and in the final quarter when Charley O'Rourke, the little fellow from Boston College, shot a handsome 40-yard pass to Jackie Robinson, negro star from U. C. L. A., who ran six yards for the other touchdown.

GREAT LAKES SHIPYARD WORKERS BALLOTING

Cleveland, Aug. 29—(AP)—The National Labor Relations Board proceeded today with a collective bargaining election among employes of seven yards of the American Ship Building Co. in six Great Lakes ports.

Hugh S. Sperry, regional director of the NLRB, said a stabilization agreement increasing wages and banning strikes or lockouts in Great Lakes shipyards, announced last night in Washington by Sidney Hillman of OPM, had no effect on the previously scheduled election.

The yards are located in Toledo, Cleveland, and Lorain, O.; Superior, Wis., South Chicago, Ill., and Buffalo, N. Y., the latter having two yards.

Workers will vote for an AFL union, a CIO union, or neither.

ST. MARYS MAN FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL IN WEST

Chicago, Aug. 29—(AP)—A man identified from papers as J. D. Beaver, 73, of St. Marys, Pa., retired superintendent of the Pittsburgh, Shawmut and Northern Railroad, was found fatally shot yesterday in a room at Stevens hotel where he was a guest.

On the bed beside the body were a discharged pistol and a note which asked that a brother, A. W. Beaver of Elkhart, Ind., be notified. Police also found four sealed envelopes which were held for the inquest today.

Beaver, a former resident of Beaver Falls, had been active in civic affairs in St. Marys where he lived with Dr. William Black.

Harriman to Head Group to Go to Moscow

Harriman's duties in the British capital.

The delegation to Moscow, which will meet with corresponding British and Russian groups, may be appointed within a few days, the president told a press conference, and may have a half dozen members.

Harriman originally was sent to London, the president explained, chiefly to handle shipping problems and assist in getting aid to nations resisting aggression.

But the position enlarged itself, Mr. Roosevelt said, to take in problems of production and supplies of all kinds, and the point was reached where the chief executive needed another general trouble shooter.

Not only will Biggers take over Harriman's duties, but he also will attempt, Mr. Roosevelt said, to tie British production problems more closely to those of this country.

Farther north, the Red Army battled to save Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, on the west bank of the Dnieper.

Fighting was reported raging in pouring rain on the central front, with Russian counterattacks gaining ground and Russian units routing a German infantry division. It was said at least 3,000 members of the division had been killed.

On the northern sector, the Red Army and its volunteer civilian units were reported fighting off German assaults on the approaches to Leningrad.

A communique last night said fighting was stubborn on the entire front and told of the evacuation of Dnieperopetrovsk. It also said Red planes had raided the East Prussian city of Koenigsberg and had sunk two German transports in the Baltic.

Soviet spokesman S. A. Lozovsky, vice commissar of foreign affairs, announced late yesterday that the giant concrete Dnieperstroy dam and all its works, the pride of the Soviets and the first construction achievements of their first five-year plan, had been sacrificed in line with Stalin's "scorched earth" policy rather than let the Germans use it.

mends a reprimand. I concur in that finding."

The national commander said, however, he was revoking the suspension "in the spirit of unity and comradeship."

Addressing Southard, he added: "Your activities in certain organizations have been definitely condemned by your comrades. Their admonition to you speaks for itself, and in the future I would conduct myself in the manner of a loyal member of this organization.

NO MORE SILK POPPIES

Philadelphia, Aug. 29—(AP)—The silk shortage has hit the Buddy Poppies the Veterans of Foreign Wars sell each year.

The national convention adopted a resolution today authorizing the poppy committee to have the 1942 poppies made of some other suitable material.

"I would conduct myself in a manner to be worthy of membership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars."

Delegates who had opposed Southard's suspension had argued that the proceedings were an attempt to gag him and that the action was an attack on free speech.

If precedent is followed, Vice Commander Max Singer of Boston moves up to succeed National Chieftain Dr. Joseph C. Menendez while the VFW auxiliary is elevating Mrs. Alice M. Donahue, Glen Cove, N. Y., to replace National President Mrs. Mabel C. Tanner.

KISKI SCHOOL SOLD

Saltsburg, Aug. 29—(AP)—The Kiski school, preparatory school for boys, has been sold to new directors by the estates of Dr. Andrew W. Wilson, founder of the school, and Dr. William McCool, headmaster at the time of his death in 1938. L. M. Clark has been named president and Col. John J. Daub will continue as headmaster.

INDUSTRALIST DIES

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 29—(AP)—Louis R. Davidson, nationally known retired industralist, died yesterday at the age of 75. He was active in several large corporations and industries and organized the Davidson Ore Mining Company here. A native of Connellsville, Pa., he is survived by his widow, the former Mary Quay, daughter of the late U. S. Senator Matthew S. Quay of Beaver, Pa., and a daughter, Mrs. George Davidson Skinner of New York.

BLACKOUT OF POWER IN ALTOONA IS AVERTED

Altoona, Aug. 29—(AP)—An agreement calling for a government supervised election of a bargaining agency averted last night a strike threatened by CIO employes of the Pennsylvania Edison Company in 10 south-central counties.

The truce was reached at a five-hour conference of representatives of the company and union with federal and state labor mediators.

The strike had been set for last midnight, and many residents had kerosene lamps and candles ready for a possible power shutdown. The Altoona Tribune started to print its morning edition several hours early as a precaution.

The once-thriving port had been a pocket of Russian resistance in German-conquered territory, choked off and besieged by Reichswehr forces which has passed it in the eastward push through Estonia into Russia proper. Its capture winds up the German conquest of Russia's recently won Baltic buffer states.

The war bulletin from the fuehrer's headquarters said 19 Russian transports loaded with troops, a destroyer and nine other naval vessels were sunk in Tallinn harbor when German land, sea and air forces made the final assault on the beleaguered city yesterday.

Violent naval battles were believed still to be raging, in the Finnish gulf, however, with Finnish and German fleets and air forces attacking dozens of troopships and warships which had fled from the burning capital. The din of the conflict was heard from Helsinki, 50 miles away.

Besides Tallinn itself, the Germans took Paldiski, the Estonian capital's modern harbor 20 miles to the west, and thousands of prisoners, the communique said.

NOVEL TWO-PIECE-EFFECT MODE

Pattern 4877

By ANNE ADAMS

Just the frock for larger women who love tailored wear—is this original style by Anne Adams, Pattern 4877. It is especially designed for slim lines, yet it has such novel details. Though one-piece in style, a two-piece effect is given by the bodice buttoning that goes right down past the waistline to the low double-pointed seaming. From here a center panel in the skirt gives the necessary flare. The V-neck is very slimming with its long, well-shaped collar—make it in contrast with cuffs to match. You'll like the unusual three-quarter length sleeves shown, though you can have them short or long if you prefer!

Pattern 4877 is available in women's sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 requires 4 yards 39 inch fabric and ¾ yard contrast.

SPECIALTIES IN THE SPOTLIGHT

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The few buyers who stepped out in today's stock market turned to specialties and left most leaders to job over a slightly irregular range.

The ticker tape moped from the start and transfers for the full proceedings were at the rate of about 350,000 shares. Fractional variations were the rule near the final hour. Numerous issues were unchanged.

NEW WEIGHT LAW TO BE IN FORCE FIRST OF MONTH

The new state law aimed at insuring full weight deliveries of coal becomes effective September 1, but officials said today its enforcement may be hampered by lack of funds.

An Associated Press dispatch states that the Internal Affairs Department is making arrangements to tighten regulations on deliveries of solid fuel but the department is placed in an embarrasing position because of the fact that the legislature would not provide funds for enforcement.

Provision could not be made for enforcement in the department's regular budget because the law had not been approved when it was drawn up. When the law finally passed, an appropriation of $50,000 was asked but the general assembly refused to grant it.

The problem of securing the necessary personnel had not yet been solved. The department estimates that at least eight or ten men will be needed to enforce the act.

Under the new law weighmasters come under the supervision of the Internal Affairs Division. The department will furnish forms for weighmasters' certificates, issued in triplicate when a load is weighed. One copy of the weight slip will go to the purchaser, one is retained by the weighmaster, and one by the person delivering the coal. The slip will show the name and address of the purchaser, date and hour when weighed, gross and net weight of the load, or divided lots.

An automobile which goes 18 miles on a gallon at 30 miles an hour will go about 12 at 60. Oil consumption is seven times greater at 55 miles an hour than at 30.

Tires in continuous runs generate such heat that in some cases the temperature runs as high as 12 degrees below the boiling point. Heat and oxidation are unrelenting enemies of rubber.

Confirmands Plan To Hold Reunion at Sheffield on Sunday

The Luther League of the Bethany Evangelical Lutheran church at Sheffield is sponsoring a confirmand reunion to be held on Sunday, when, it is reported, more than 100 former confirmands of the congregation will be present from out of town.

Two former pastors will be back for the occasion and all members and friends are cordially invited. Special services will be held and all will have an opportunity of visiting the Sunday School and Bible classes. These begin at 9:30 a. m.

At 10:30, there will be Holy Communion, with Rev. A. S. Pearson, of Montclair, N. J., returning to his former charge to preach the communion sermon. Pastor Pearson and Rev. Carl E. Lundgren, another former pastor now in Houtzdale, will administer the sacrament and Rev. Carl H. Gronquist, who recently assumed the pastorate, will have the altar service.

In the afternoon, starting at 2:30, a reunion service will be held and Dr. Felix V. Hanson, of Jamestown, N. Y., president of the New York Conference, will be the guest speaker. Greetings will be brought by Pastor Lundgren, also, and several vocal solos and choir anthems will add to the program.

Business Activity Exceeds All Levels During Past Week

Business activity in the Pittsburgh district exceeded all previous levels last week, an Associated Press dispatch states. A survey by the University of Pittsburgh reveals that the unusually large volume of department store sales that week was responsible for the spurt.

The week's business index was 151.4 per cent of the 1923-25 average and nearly a point higher than the record set the preceding week. The dollar volume of department store sales the past three weeks has been nearly 50 per cent greater than in the comparable period of 1940.

Industrial operations continued high, with steel at practical capacity. Forty-four of the district's 47 available blast furnaces were in production and carloadings of coal, iron and steel products also rose somewhat.

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The people here, I must say, like plenty of brass with their music, dining or dancing. . . . It is a preference I thought would wane, but then I guess I am just optimistic. . . . It hasn't waned, and it hasn't diminished, not that I have been able to notice. I was thinking about this the other night because I had dinner at the Astor roof, where Will Bradley's band is playing, and the Bradley organization—a very fine one, by the way—has plenty of brass.

It isn't that I'm necessarily against brass; it's just this—when they play too loud, for some reason my left arm begins to ache. . . . It aches from the elbow down. I don't suppose this makes good sense. But it does ache when I sit in a room where there is a band with a heavy trombone and trumpet section and the accent is on brass.

Bradley had a fine crowd on the floor and at the tables. I do not know him personally, but from where I sat—except when he had a trombone in his hands—he seemed shy. In fact, he seemed embarrassed. Probably when he reads this he will double up with laughter. I know once after observing Enric Madriguera I went back to the office and wrote how melancholy and sad he seemed to me. Next day he telephoned to say he had been laughing his head off and that he had never heard anything so peculiar.

AFTER a while I noticed that my arm had begun to ache, so I strolled out under the open sky and sat by a pool on an uncovered part of the roof and counted the stars that came down over the Times Building. There were seven of them.

There were ferns, or maybe they were palms—it was hard to tell in the low light—and there was a high stockade type of fence that fenced in the opened roof, and one sat there relaxed, with the soft breezes loafing in from the river, and thought, "How peaceful, how quiet. . . . New York seems a million miles away."

Yet I could have pitched my cigaret into Broadway. With a sling shot, I could have broken a window in the Paramount building. . . . If I had walked 20 feet, I could have looked across Times Square, and into Loew's State.

BUT I didn't. Why walk, even 20 feet, when you can close your eyes, lean back, and be anywhere you want to be? After a few moments my waiter came softly up and, motioning to the pool so invitingly covered with water lilies, I asked him, "Are there any fish in there?"

He said, "No sir, there are no fish in there," and it disappointed me because a pool without fish is a song unsung and a tale untold, and that, you will agree, is something that should never be.

Later I got into an elevator and went down into the damp, lame, limpid reality of Broadway. My seven stars over the Times Building were gone, obscured by low, gently moving clouds. A driver asked, "Cab?" . . . The running dispatches on the Times Building were telling tales of London, Berlin, Moscow, and far off Tokyo. It was reality, all right. To the driver I said "Yes," and went home.

Ward is Favored To Cop Amateur

the title in 1939 and here he is again.

He came into the semi-final round with a convincing 5 and 4 decision over Little Steve Kovach, the popular Pennsylvania kid who couldn't match Bud's skill on the second nine of their quarter-final round.

Riegel didn't carry as brilliant a reputation into the semi-final as Ward. In fact he had to play off to get into match play. But he's been going at a steady pace since he stopped Omaha Johnny Goodman in that surprising extra-hole first-round match.
